BOY SCOUTS SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL

Members of local Boy Scout troops this afternoon joined in a search for Miss Mary Curtin, 29, who disappeared from her Agawam street home last Friday and who has not since been seen. Yesterday a group of Girl Scouts covered considerable territory in the vicinity of Billerica, and today boy troop leaders will take groups over additional woodland in an effort to locate the girl.

Police of all surrounding towns have been notified of the girl's disappearance and state constabulary on motor-cycles have orders to keep a sharp watch for any person answering her description.

It was reported at local police headquarters today that a young woman answering the description of Miss Curtin was seen in the vicinity of Silver Lake last Sunday. Every camp in that district will be searched in an attempt to locate her.

Phone Paymaster Declares Wallace and Shaughnessy Two of the Three Men Who Robbed Him of $22,000

BOSTON, April 25.—Herbert P. Shaughnessy and Edward A. Wallace, the men arrested yesterday while taking $500 from a safe deposit vault rented by them in a Worcester bank, were identified today by Peter Gidds, paymaster for the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., as two of the three men who robbed him of $22,000 on April 6. Witnesses of the Gidds robbery also said they were the men involved, it was understood, but the police would make no official statement. Victims of other robberies failed to identify the men. Search for the third man in the Gidds robbery was being prosecuted today with most of success, police officials indicated, and they added that they hoped to recover more of the money which they said was taken from Gidds. Shaughnessy and Wallace claim the money was made by them in bootlegging operations, and that they had no hand in the paymaster's robbery.

In the Roxbury district court, Shaughnessy and Wallace pleaded not guilty, and were held for a hearing on May 9, on bonds of $50,000 each.

LOCAL NEWSPAPER SUES C. H. HANSON CO

An action of tort or contract with ad-damnum of $10,000, resulting from the fire at the studios of the C. H. Hanson Co., Inc., in Rock street last November, was started this morning at the civil session of the superior court, Justice Stak president.

The plaintiff in the case is the C. H. Hanson Co., while the defendant is the C. H. Hanson Co., Inc. The former is represented by Kerwin & Reilly, while the latter's counsel are Qua, Howard & Torga.

The plaintiff company alleges that on Nov. 25, 1922, it contracted with the defendant company to transport certain printed merchandise from its plant in Market street to the freight station of the Boston & Maine railroad. That the merchandise, valued at $181,581, was taken from the company's plant in Market street and removed to the studios of the defendant company in Rock street, where most of it was destroyed by fire on the same evening. The plaintiff also alleges that it had to expend the sum of $39,811 to salvage a portion of its merchandise. The defendant company denies each and every allegation contained in the plaintiff's declaration.

BILL TO REDIVIDE THE CITY INTO WARDS

(Special to The Sun)

A bill requiring the election commissioners of Lowell to redivide the city into wards has been filed at the State house on petition of Senator Putnam and Representatives Jewett and Achim. It provides that in the year 1924 and every tenth year thereafter, the election commission shall make a new division of the city into not less than nine, nor more than 11 wards.

Because the bill is filed late, suspension of the rules is necessary in order to permit it to be considered this year. The senate has already suspended its rules for this purpose and the question of whether the house will follow suit is now under consideration by the house committee on rules.

CHIEF SAUNDERS WILL GO TO SPRINGFIELD

Chief Edward F. Saunders will go to Springfield tomorrow, with other members of the Massachusetts Fire Chiefs' club, to attend fire prevention day conferences to be held as a part of No-Accident week observances under the auspices of the Springfield chamber of commerce. The chiefs will leave Boston by special cars attached to the 8:15 a.m. train and will be entertained at luncheon at the Hotel Kimball at 12:15 o'clock. At 4 p.m. Walter L. Wedder, chemist of the state police, will lecture on "Explosives and Dynamitables." At 6 o'clock members of the club will be guests of the city of Springfield at dinner and will leave for Boston at 8:30 p.m.

Mayor John J. Donovan and two or three members of the city council had intended to take the trip with Chief Saunders, but the conference on the Saco-Lowell proposition arranged for tomorrow afternoon, has forced them to change their plans.

SALARIES OF ELECTION BOARD MEMBERS

As far as the city law department is concerned the question of the establishment of salaries of election commissioners, who also are members of the new listing board under the act recently passed, will be settled by an opinion to be rendered tomorrow morning by Solicitor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan.

This morning Chairman Hugh C. McRostie and Clerk J. Omer Allard of the commission conferred on the matter with Mr. O'Sullivan, but until an opinion is given the commissioners do not care to comment upon the question.

The question that has arisen is a delicate one and of peculiar interest and importance to the election commissioners. The law which created the listing board says salaries of the members "shall be $2,000 a year, or any amount not exceeding $2,000 which the mayor and city council may by ordinance prescribe." The commissioners contend that the intent of this provision is to establish salaries for each of them of $2,000 per year, retrospective to March 1, the date on which the bill was signed and became law.

What the solicitor will rule in his opinion is not known, but he said today after the conference with the commissioners that he would have an opinion ready tomorrow morning.

LAWRENCE MEN BUY MORE LOWELL PROPERTY

David Steinman and Abraham Pressman, two residents of Lawrence who have bought considerable real estate in this city again came to the front this morning when they closed a deal by which they became the owners of the extensive tenement property in Market street, formerly owned by Thomas F. Hennessy. The deal involved about $65,000 and was effected through the office of George Deloers, a local broker.

The property consists of the large tenement block at 355-359 Market st., which also extends to Cardinal O'Connell parkway. This parcel contains 10 tenements and five stores and is located on a tract of 4,000 square feet of land. In the deal also was the large brick block at 443-455 Market street and rear buildings, which contain 22 tenements and four stores. The property at 355-359 Market street and Cardinal O'Connell parkway is assessed for close to $15,000, while the assessment on the other parcel is over $18,000.

SAYS CITY COUNCIL HAS RIGHT TO CLOSE WORTHEN STREET IF IT DEEMS NECESSITY EXISTS

Body Receives Opinion From Solicitor O'Sullivan and Defers Final Action on Saco-Lowell Petition for Another Week—Conference of All Interested Parties Set for Thursday Afternoon

Legally, the city council has the right to close New Kitson street and a portion of Worthen street as petitioned for by the Saco-Lowell shops. It is the opinion of the city council that it may demand from the petitioners satisfactory security that the petitioners will indemnify and save harmless the city of Lowell from all damages and charges which it may be obliged to pay by reason of the discontinuance of said way.

It is the opinion of the city council that action on the petition should be deferred for another week. Next Thursday afternoon the council, public service board, the mayor, members of the planning board, the solicitor, and representatives of the Saco-Lowell shops and the Locke and Canals Corp., will meet to go over the actual site of the proposed expansion and at the same time make a tour of the present manufacturing plant.

CONVENTION OF N. E. CONFERENCE OF LUTHERAN CHURCHES OPENED HERE TODAY

Dr. Rev. Dr. S. G. Prugnall of Boston presided at the opening of the 11th annual convention of the New England conference of Augustana Synod of Lutheran churches, which opened at the Swedish Lutheran church of the city this morning. Reports of the Board of Missions were read at the first meeting of the 250 delegates, who have assembled here in 10 hotels.

At the Pastoral Conference, which opened at two o'clock this afternoon, Rev. F. W. Lindstrom of East Green-now in the hands of the people of the county from whom the tapers are drawn." Mr. Bushnell stated that the days were gone when the execution of the law rested upon the judges and district attorneys.

"It is upon you," he continued, "and people like you who are directly responsible for the execution of the law."

"I can tell you in a very few words what is wrong with the jury system and that is when a great many people of your type, interested and active in business affairs, are called for jury service, you come down to Cambridge and say, 'I have been drawn for jury service but I serve it will mean great financial loss' and get excused. If the successful business men are not to serve on the juries, the juries are going to be drawn from an element that is lacking in intelligence. You can not blame, I do not blame, a business man for seeking to be excused from jury service, but if they do not serve then we are not going to have good juries."

Mr. Bushnell told several stories regarding men of high standing in communities men who were presidents of 20 or 30 concerns, serving on juries simply because they felt, if they were ever called into court, they would want a jury of intelligent men to decide their case.

The schoolboy radio fan now has his hands not only in receiving, but in broadcasting.

He's broadcasting his own wit and wisdom.

This innovation in radio has been brought about through the cooperation of broadcasting station WHN at Ridgewood, N. Y., and a local school.

The broadcasting station reports that thousands of children who have

Amateur Night

WHN, by the way, has another unique stunt, Amateur nights. Every Thursday evening at 10:30 an hour and a half is devoted to the varied program of amateur talent. The winners of these contests are determined by the WHN audience whose votes are recorded by letters and telephone calls to the station.

The popularity of the contests may be judged by the fact that the average number of votes is reported to be more than 3000.

SOLICITOR'S OPINION ON SACO-LOWELL PROPOSITION MOST IMPORTANT DOCUMENT

The opinion submitted to the city council last night on the legal phases of the Saco-Lowell proposition by Solicitor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan bids fair to become one of the most important decisions ever to emanate from the city law office and for this reason it is herewith published in full:

April 24, 1923.

To the city council, Lowell, Mass. Gentlemen of the council:

As per your request I have carefully examined the matter of the petition of the Saco-Lowell company with reference to the authority of the city council to grant said petition and with further reference to the legal liability of the city of Lowell with respect to the decisions of the street council to be closed, as well as the financial aspects, whose premises might be damaged in the event that the petition is granted and I respectfully submit the

JEREMIAH J. O'SULLIVAN,
City Solicitor.

THE LOWELL SUN WEDNESDAY APRIL 25, 1923

be presented to the council for passing.

The city council is best able to determine and adjudge upon a balance of all considerations bearing upon the petition, whether the discontinuance of New Kitson street and that part of Worthen street from Broadway to the northern bank of the Western canal would be for the public interest or not.

"The power to create a public interest and act for the sake of benefiting a private party."

Dillon on Municipal Corporations, Section 1160, P. 1533.

And to determine whether common convenience and necessity no longer require said ways.

"It is not to be presumed that they will discontinue a highway, once laid out, unless the considerations in favor of the discontinuance decidedly preponderate."

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

And to determine whether common convenience and necessity no longer require said ways.

"It is not to be presumed that they will discontinue a highway, once laid out, unless the considerations in favor of the discontinuance decidedly preponderate."

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

With reference to the legal liability of the city of Lowell with respect to the abutments on the street proposed to be closed, as well as other remnants, whose property might be damaged in the event that the petition is granted."

In the event that the city council should determine to discontinue New Kitson street and the part of Worthen street from Broadway to the northern bank of the Western canal, and should grant the petition, any person sustaining damage in his property by said discontinuance shall be entitled to recover the same.

Section 24, Chapter 82 General Laws.

Under the decisions in this Commonwealth, one has the right to recover on account of the discontinuance of a public way, if that person suffers a special and peculiar damage.

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

With reference to the legal liability of the city council to grant said petition:

The authority of towns and towns to lay out, relocate and discontinue town ways is expressly granted by the statutes of this Commonwealth.

Section 21, of said chapter 82, provides for application to the county commissioners by a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way.

Section 36. Upon the application in writing of a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way, or private way, the county commissioners order such way to be discontinued.

The above section applies to cities.

Section 22, chapter 82, general laws.

Under our system of public ways, a town way is a public way laid out in proceedings, in which a town or city has original jurisdiction.

Boston & Albany R. R. v. Boston, 140 Mass. 527.

And is distinguished from a highway, in that a highway is laid out, altered or discontinued, by the authorities having jurisdiction throughout the county.

Butcher's Assn. v. Boston, 131 Mass. 290. Denham v. county commissioners 108 Mass. 292.

From my examination of the records of the engineering office of the city of Lowell, as outlined on plan attached to this opinion, I am satisfied that New Kitson street, and that part of Worthen street between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal are town ways.

The city council of the city of Lowell, therefore, may exercise jurisdiction of said petition for discontinuing New Kitson street and that part of Worthen street between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal under the power expressly granted by Section 21, above quoted, and under authority of Section 1, chapter 39 of the necessity do, or do not require in the exercise of the power, that common convenience and necessity require the action prayed for in the petition.

General Laws, chapter 82, section 2, section 4, with the same language as contained in the ordinances of Cambridge, 16 Mass. 36; Hyde Park v. County Commissioners of Norfolk, 117 Mass. 416; Taft v. mayor and city council of Cambridge, 122 Mass. 522.

While it has been held, that in laying out a town way, a formal adjudication that public convenience and necessity require it, is not made essential to its legality.

Jones v. Andover, 9 Pick. 154.

Higginson v. Nahant, 11 Allen 359.

Without attempting to distinguish between the exercise of the power to lay out a highway and the exercise of the power with respect to a town way, as to the requisite of formal adjudication that public convenience and necessity require the action prayed for, it is the opinion of the city council of the city of Lowell to discontinue, and to discontinue under all the facts and circumstances what public convenience and

Section 36, above quoted, and under authority of Section 1, chapter 39 of the necessity do, or do not require in the discontinuance of public way.

The city council is best able to determine and adjudge upon a balance of all considerations bearing upon the petition, whether the discontinuance of New Kitson street and that part of Worthen street from Broadway to the northern bank of the Western canal would be for the public interest or not.

"The power to create a public interest and act for the sake of benefiting a private party."

Dillon on Municipal Corporations,

Section 1160, P. 1533.

And to determine whether common

convenience and necessity no longer require said ways.

"It is not to be presumed that they will discontinue a highway,

once laid out, unless the considerations in favor of the discontinuance decidedly preponderate."

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

And to determine whether common

convenience and necessity no longer

require said ways.

"It is not to be presumed that they will discontinue a highway,

once laid out, unless the considerations in favor of the discontinu-

ance decidedly preponderate."

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

With reference to the authority of the city council to grant said petition:

The authority of towns and towns to lay out, relocate and discontinue town ways is expressly granted by the statutes of this Commonwealth.

Section 21, of said chapter 82, provides for application to the county commissioners by a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way.

Section 36. Upon the application in writing of a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way, or private way, the county commissioners order such way to be discontinued.

Section 36, above quoted, and under authority of Section 1, chapter 39 of the necessity do, or do not require in the discontinuance of public way.

This suggestion is made, because, in my opinion, unless all proceedings taking in discontinuing a town way are in conformity with Chapter 82, of the General Laws, the action would be subject to a petition for a writ of certiorari to quash the entire proceedings.

Respectfully submitted,

JEREMIAH J. O'SULLIVAN.

Another Million Dollar Tip On Making Good Candies

BY ROY GIBBONS
N.E.A. Service Staff Writer
CHICAGO, April 26.—"When people ask me how to succeed I answer in terms of candy: You cannot make good candy unless you use good ingredients, and you cannot make a success of life unless you put into it the best there's in you."

This advice comes from Mrs. Ora Snyder, "America's Candy Queen," who has made an initial investment of five cents grow into a million-dollar candy business in 13 years. Mrs. Snyder is writing a score of recipes for "Mrs. Snyder's home-made candies" for readers of The Sun.

"For example," says Mrs. Snyder, "the best substitute for butter, in making candy is—butter! And if a recipe calls for cream, you should use cream—milk will not do." Mrs. Snyder's monthly bill for the one item of cream is $10.00.

She gives other hints to home candy-makers:

"Use aluminum kettles, as they are not so likely to burn."

"In cooking fudges, caramels and brittles, use a kettle large enough to permit lively boiling without running over."

"Use a square layer cake pan in which to mold candy before cutting, and be sure to butter the pan well."

"Too much flavoring is worse than not enough."

"Never add flavoring while candies are being cooked, as the alcohol in the mixture evaporates, detracting from the flavor."

"Candy must cool quickly; a marble slab is best for cooling."

"Never make a large batch of candy and try to cool it on a small platter."

Dandruff and Itching

Scalp is Best Relieved

With the aid of Sulphur, not common sulphur, which is too much arsenic—nor sulphur as you find it in ointments and liquid scalp remedies because it does not get down under your scalp. But (precipitated) purified sulphur in LIQUID as you get in Griffen's Hair Grower. Without hardly any rubbing, the sulphur penetrates to the roots of the hair purifying and strengthening them.

Dandruff CANNOT be cured and "any sort" of shampooing only causes MORE dandruff and itching and weakens the hair. Griffen's Hair Grower will give you the BEST relief and will STOP MORE GROWTH of dandruff in new dandruff for HUNDREDS of Lowell men and women. Get a bottle TODAY at Howard's, Dow's, Sheats', Green's, Thomasson's, McCord's, Clegg's, Lowell and City Hall Pharmacists at Biley's, Perry's, Curtis' barber shops or direct from the ORIGINATOR at 429 Middlesex St., where you may be treated with Viburnum or cold-ray stimulation as additional aid—Adv.

MRS. ORA SNYDER, AMERICA'S CANDY QUEEN.

"Don't put candy in a refrigerator, as it will absorb the moisture."

"Candies containing cream, butter or nougats should not be cooked on too hot a fire, or they will stick to the kettle."

"Stir gently candies with cream, butter or nougats as ingredients; violent stirring will make them 'sugar'."

AUTO BUILDERS GET IDEAS FROM WOMEN

"New car, new clothes" is an old story to Friend Linhard. And recognition of woman's love of neatness in all things has suggested to one motor car manufacturer the value of a hygienic inspection of all cars leaving this factory so that Mrs. Motorist, as well as her husband, will be pleased with the appearance and cleanliness of "the new car."

"Four times out of five, the buyer's wife accompanies him when he takes delivery of a new car or goes for the first drive in it," says Mr. Leach of the Church Street Motor Co., local representative of the Velle car.

"And, as belts such an important event, the woman is usually perturbed in her heart. Now, so much as a bit of dirt on a new glove, coat or gown utterly ruins her pleasure on that first ride, and detracts from her idea of the car's value.

"To make certain that each Velle will reach its owner immediately clean and ready for Milady, a sort of super-inspection has been established at the Velle plant in Moline, Ill. A very kindly individual, who doesn't care how much trouble he causes, inspects the cars with the attitude of a new owner. So much as a tiny spot on upholstery calls for an explanation and, if necessary, new fabric. The body finish must be perfect. The driving compartment, steering wheel and controls must be absolutely clean. A tiny deck off enamel or nickel appears as terrible to this inspector as it would to the most particular purchaser. He goes over every inch of exterior and interior in his painstaking search for little things.

"He found that several workmen in the finishing department were wearing old, soiled caps and promptly issued an order that put everybody in brand new headgear. He had seen that whenever one of these workmen chanced to lean his head against a bright finish that it left a faint trace of grease.

"Such care is certain to interest the new car buyer who has grown accustomed to explanation that you can't help little things happening in a great big dirty automobile factory. The letters 'OK' mean more than just 'good enough' at the Velle shipping platform."

TO MANAGE RENTAL OF SPALDING PARK

A meeting of the executive committee of the high school alumni association was held in Headmaster Harris' office in the high school yesterday afternoon. From this committee another committee was formed to take care of the rental of Spalding Park for sporting affairs. The members of this committee are Edward W. Trull, Bennett Silverblatt, Arthur L. Eno, Charles H. McIntire, and Henry H. Harris, member ex-officio. This committee has already received several applications for permission to use the park from local and out-of-town organizations, one of which is the International Fireworks company of Newark, N. J., who desire to stage their immense pageant, "Scraping the Navy and the Dawn of Peace," at the park for three nights during the summer. No definite action has been taken on any of these requests as yet.

R. R. Rector of the Rumels Construction company reported that the fence at Spalding park was completely renovated and in good shape and that a new gateway had been cut in the fence on Village street to provide entrance and exit to automobiles. He also reported that the west bleachers were entirely made over and were stronger than they ever were before, that the east bleachers were being repaired and that the grandstand has been strengthened structurally, the roof put in good shape, and that in the central portion, the flooring has been renewed and the seats replaced.

The park is now sufficiently renovated to make it a good athletic field and city officials will be granted to rentalable organizations who desire to use the park on days when the high school is not scheduled to play there and the money received for this rental will go to further the improvements at the park. At the present time the finances of the alumni organization are not in good shape and those who have pledged to contribute come across with the actual money, it is feared that not much more can be done for the athletic field. Mr. Harris has high hopes, though, that the necessary money will be forthcoming and that the rest of the park may be fixed up and that both wings of the grandstand may be reboared and the grandstand put in place.

It was called to the attention of the meeting that several dedications had already been made on the lumber supply at the park and it is expected that a car-talter will be appointed in the near future to act as a watchman and to do general work about the field.

ANCIENT ORDER OF UNITED WORKMEN

Albert W. David and John Toye of this city, represented Lowell Lodge No. 22 of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen at the 45th annual convention held in Boston yesterday, with delegates present from New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. Mr. David was honored by the delegates in session by being placed on the committee of laws. The financial standing of the Lodge is in excellent condition, asserted Mr. David. In commenting on the conference, over a million dollars each year is being paid out in death benefits. The total membership of the Lodge is estimated at 18,000. One hundred and thirty lodges were in conference. The increased insurance rates for fraternal lodges received the attention of the gathering. Lowell has a membership of over 300 in this Lodge, which is the pioneer of fraternal insurance organizations in this country, having been started in 1868.

TOLD INTERESTING STORY OF EUROPE

Delightful impressions of Europe, gained in his travels on the continent last summer, were given before the Educational club yesterday afternoon by Frederick G. Woodward, sub-master of the high school, at a meeting held at the Central Methodist church.

Mr. Woodward most interestingly told of many places visited by tourists, including a thrilling account of a trip to the crater of Mt. Vesuvius from Naples, glimpses of the island of Capri, Rome, Florence, Venice, Paris, Versailles, Verdon and other places which gained prominence during the war especially enjoyed, as was his description of London life of the present day.

The desolation in northern France even as late as last summer would create sympathy for that country, he said, in speaking of many battlefields visited.

THE BUICK HAS AN IDEAL REPAIR SHOP

In keeping with the Buick automobile policy of "service," the Lowell agents offer to Lowell motorists a complete and better service than ever offered before. The Lowell Buick Co. has an equipment which is second to none in a city of Lowell's size. A more spacious repair shop is seldom found in cities much larger either than Lowell. The completeness with which the local Buick repair shop is equipped is often a complete surprise to car owners entering it for the first time.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S SPEECH

President Harding's address before a gathering of the Associated Press at New York yesterday, is one of the best he ever delivered. It has bold and positive statement and apparent firmness of purpose, qualities which have been sadly lacking in many, if not in all, of the president's political utterances. He comes out squarely in favor of having the United States join the world court provided by the League of Nations and to participate in the work of that international body as a tribunal of arbitral justice.

It will be remembered that the president, during his campaign for election, made the statement that he would favor an international court of justice. He now claims to be fulfilling that pledge in leading the United States into the League of Nations court, although the sweeping majority by which he was elected was given as a repudiation of the proposition to join the League of Nations.

The president will have difficulty in disposing of the arguments to the effect that we cannot enter the world court without eventually entering the League of Nations or getting our government entangled in European controversies. This is where the difficulty will arise, but the president makes the positive statement that neither he nor his party has the remotest idea of countenancing any move to enter the League of Nations, either "by the side door, the back door, or the cellar door." He allows that the opponents of the League of Nations have clouded the whole situation and perhaps, in a measure, they have and hence it now remains for the president to clarify the situation and convince everybody that the best thing this nation can do is to enter the International court of justice. We are all open to conviction.

The president certainly presents some strong arguments in support of his attitude on this question and he adds that the matter is so clearly with in the scope of our national policies and our friendly relations with foreign nations, that it should not be treated as a party question. That also is true, because it is a matter concerning the welfare of this government which cannot be expected to be affected by party policies.

LLOYD GEORGE NEXT

The galaxy of British "nobles" great and small, bent upon visiting the United States before the glamour starts to wear off, is growing steadily. Dukes and nobles, society queens and a few cards now and then, to say nothing of a long string of counts and countesses, appear to be coming here without let or hindrance. And now comes that astute politician and erstwhile world figure, the Hon. Lloyd George, former premier of England, et al. Mr. George will visit the United States and Canada on the side, some time in September. He is reported to be "anxious" about it.

We have no doubt that the visit of Lloyd George will attract wide attention, as is to be expected. The four or five hundred picture men will catch him first either on the maturity wall, coming out New York bay, or when he steps sprightly on the municipal pier and pauses in cheerful salute. New York's populace of the big and small "it" may be safely relied upon to do the rest, not forgetting, of course, the able-bodied and mentally alert news writers, who will respond joyously to the call to the first-voiced colors.

The distinguished Welshman is stated, will speak in New York, Washington, Chicago, Toronto, Montreal and other cities, possibly Boston. Some people do not admire him but none can deny his ability as a shrewd politician. Indeed he lost much of his popularity in England by the agility with which he changed his attitude on public questions. He is a man of great courage and in politics, expediency was the rule of his life. That policy is better in war than in politics following the war, as the ex-premier has discovered, although he weakened the ranks of opposition longer after the war than any other European premier.

FORTUNATE SPRINGFIELD

The city of Springfield is fortunate in having art museums as a result of the philanthropic efforts and contributions of the late George Walter Vincent Smith. It seems that when a young man, Smith had a great taste for the works of art. Entering an art gallery in New York, he was so impressed by one of the paintings on exhibition, that he purchased it and made it the beginning of a wonderful collection of art treasures which are now owned by the city of Springfield, and housed in a magnificent building. By the recent death of this art connoisseur and public benefactor, the city of Springfield, on the death of his widow, will come into possession of his entire estate, estimated to be about one million dollars, the income of which is to be used for the care and maintenance of the Springfield Art Museum and the collection of art works housed therein.

It is certainly a signal honor and benefit for the city of Springfield, and one that will give it great prominence as a center of art culture.

The Billerica fire department put up a gallant battle Sunday in fighting the forest fire that swept over Gilson Hill and the lowlands in the vicinity. When such a fire sweeps over 500 acres and when dwellings in its path are saved, then the firemen deserve congratulations. That is what happened in Billerica Sunday.

The park department should make a great success of the summer playgrounds, if we are to judge from the list of supervisors approved for the work. These playgrounds should teach discipline and present sufficient attractions to keep the children away from the dangers of the streets.

It is to be hoped that those who are buying so largely of local real estate are not doing so for the sole purpose of raising the rent. Our local assessors will be justified in adopting rigorous methods in dealing with rack-renting landlords.

The location of the new Edison school which comes will be another knotty problem for the school board. The center of the school population has changed since the opening of St. Peter's parochial school.

The listing offices are supposed to have counted noses. It is hoped they have done the kind of job the public was led to believe they would do the best ever.

The auto parties that are caught on a railroad track in front of an approaching train are criminally negligent and usually pay the penalty in the resulting collision.

THE LOWELL SUN

SEEN AND HEARD

Neighbors with phonographs never break any dance records.

One who claims to be a perfect 36 is not speaking of her age.

A man who says he will eat his hat is liable to be the goat.

Some boys are small for their age. So are some men.

A Thought

The universe is but one great city, full of belated ones, fiction and human, by nature dedicated to each other. Epictetus.

Dividing the Crown

"I attended a theatre in London," says an American player, "on the occasion of the production of a play wherein the chief figure, the king, aged and infirm, was blessed with two sons. He who passed away down the stage with a quiet and melancholy air, 'Now which of these two sons shall I bestow my crown?' Came a voice from the gallery, 'Why not 'turf a crown apace, guv'nor?'

Books Required

At the club vacation parties were going around. There was a hemi-globe drawn up in front of the fire. "I fished with three hooks at a time," stated the man on one end. "Frequently I caught two at a time, sometimes three, but I never got a fish weighing a pound above it, either. It's the truth." The man at the other end said he didn't doubt it. "In fact," he went on to say, "I have seen it done. Now my ease was quite different." "Well, what was your ease?" "The fish knew I had bait and they just jumped into the boat."

Catol Jokes

U. S. Representative Albert Johnson of Washington Third district tells this story: It was during a hot fight in congress over certain western land laws. The western congressmen had formed what now we call a "block" and were making a tremendous to-do in their efforts to get these laws modified more. Their slogan, "In God we trust," became the motto of the block. "We have a lot of sound and fury in my time, but the most impressive sound in my experience is the sound of a little bunch of western congressmen making a noise like a majority."

The Gardener's Smile

"Well, Thomas, how do I look?" asked the colonel of his favorite servant, the gardener, as he showed off his new uniform. "Splendid, sir, splendid," said the old man, "but you look as bad as a lion." "What do you know about a lion?" You never saw one," said the colonel. "O, yes, sir," answered the servant. "I've often seen a lion." "Where?" was the next question. "Why, sir, up at the hall. Sir John has a lion and you've often seen him, sir." "Nonsense. What's that?" "It's a jackass and they call it 'the lion,'" "Well, sir," said William, "I'm afraid, anyhow, you look just like that."

The Queen's Answer

Promising forth from poverty to riches Mr. Smith bought a motor car. It wasn't much of a car, but he talked about it a lot. He always called it "my automobile." He tried many experiments with it, and was often seen returning inverted. This had so annoyed Mr. Smith that he sold his automobile, buying the lot of the neighborhood. One day Smith was mowing his lawn when something went wrong with the mower. He sat down beside it to have a look at the machinery. A wag, chance to pass that way, paused "Good morning, Smith," he said. "Good morning, Mr. Smith," said the wag. "Well, sir," said William, "I'm afraid, anyhow, you look just like that."

Work

Some work for wealth, some work for joy.

As life were a game, some toil and struggle and all arts employ.

To make themselves a name.

Some work with pleasure, some complain.

About the daily task.

Some are contented with the daily gain, and that is all they ask.

Some work with hope, some in despair.

Some view their work with pride.

Some find the daily burden hard to bear.

Always dissatisfied.

Some work to hasten reward.

Without work life would pall.

Some always work and there are some who do not work at all.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Blow to Poor Coal

N. Y. Herald: By enactment of a drastic law Massachusetts has succeeded in reducing to a negligible minimum the importation and sale of foreign coal within her borders. In less than twenty-four hours after the bill had been signed by Governor Cox 400 tons of unburned coal was seized in one yard in Somerville. Two days later 2600 tons was barred from sale pending analysis. At towns all over the state so-called coal in carload lots was seized and freight agents warned that other cars loaded with suspected coal were to be held for investigation.

Summarized, the results of this much-needed legislation are that within the few weeks that have elapsed since its enactment in the Bay State it is beyond of unburned coal and is ready with clean coal for combustion by the state scales of weights and measures.

Massachusetts has demonstrated that marketing calm bank refuse as coal may be made a barred industry within her jurisdiction. What Massachusetts has done in this respect other states may do.

The Price of Clothing

Patrick O'Farrell: Why is clothing high? William M. Wood gives as one of the reasons "the passage of the tariff act last September, fixing a duty of 10 cents a pound on wool." You pay it every time you buy your clothing. O'Farrell blames the starting price on the capitalist. Blame it on the capitalist.

The Case of Chelsea

Lawrence Ulrich: Chelsea is confronted with the simpler but no less of clearing out a congested area which has been devoted largely to the junk business. Members of the great Ulrichs were received Sunday when trees of an apparently incendiary origin broke out in this section and only the back of high wind prevented a repetition of the previous experience.

Chelsea authorities have received for a long time the dangers that existed in this district, where junk shops and the like picking industry have flourished. These are perfectly legitimate and necessary lines of business but decidedly dangerous from a fire standpoint when carried on in old wooden buildings. It is now proposed to make more strict building regulations in an attempt to reduce the fire hazard.

City officials naturally hesitate to adopt measures which they know must be unpopular with many of their staunch supporters. In cases like this the welfare of the majority demands such a course and the officials should fulfill their obligations to the city as well as to the public.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The suburbanite's thoughts of spring planting received a rude shock when he awoke yesterday morning to find the mercury in his thermometer down near the 30 mark. Though he shivered, his decision to plant was not shaken in the least. Every year he goes through the same ordeal of sowing, fertilizing, planting, weeding and then reaping reward that hardly pays for the expenditure of time and money, but he never loses faith. Sooner or later a bumper crop will be harvested and he will be amply repaid for his labor. It is well that he looks at it in this way for he, physically, is reaping the reward of his labor. Work in the out-doors is the greatest tonic, and Dame Nature is often the best doctor.

We who scoff at the suburbanite's endeavor to grow vegetables for his home table might profit by following his example.

A neighbor of mine labors faithfully on a 12 foot x 12 foot patch every summer. Half of this patch is given over to lettuce and the other half to sweet peas. His joy at harvesting a head of lettuce for a salad or cutting a bunch of sweet peas for the table seems to make him forget the long hours of toil he spent on his hands and knees. He is satisfied so we should not ridicule him.

The street car starters come in for some hard knocks from patrons of the cars for things over which they have no control, and many people seem to think that the duty of the starter is to get the car out of the square five minutes before they arrive. People who believe the worst of the starter are laboring under a serious misapprehension. One instance of the thoughtfulness of the starter was brought to my attention forcibly the other morning. I came down on a car that is due in the square at 35 minutes past the hour. Most of the people on that car can commute to Boston. The only car that will get them to the station on time to make their connection is an extra that comes into the city from Collinsville and branches over to the Westford street line. This car gets to the square about 33 minutes past the hour. If this car were allowed to leave the square as soon as it unloaded, the people on the first car would not get their train. The starter, whenever possible, holds the extra car one minute or so until the first mentioned car gets into the square, and by doing so has won the regard of every passenger on that car. He does not delay the running time of the cars to any extent in this way, but he has shown that he has the right idea of service and he deserves commendation for his work.

The old landmarks are rapidly giving way to modernity. The old house at the corner of Beacon and Tenth streets, formerly part of the Parker estate, is now deserted, awaiting a wrecking crew which will tear it down to make way for many modern houses.

The location of this house was excellent, right at the corner where the electric cars pass, and there is more than an acre of land attached to the property. Christian Hill has been slow in building, but with this old house gone and several new ones built in its place it looks as though this district were going to boom. Large blocks and apartment houses have not as yet gone in in this district, and its location and height above the rest of the city makes it ideal. Sooner or later it will be popular as a residential district. The hill while only a fifteen-minute walk from the square, has always been isolated, and the residents have become used to that. They seem to be content in their isolation.

AUDIENCE CHARMED BY BLIND VIOLINIST

Local patrons of music who were fortunate enough to be present in the Memorial Auditorium last night, were given another opportunity to hear a celebrated artist in Abraham Haltowitsch, blind Russian violinist, who contributed a concert of beautiful music for the violin before an audience, which, noticeably appreciative, was not commensurate with the skill and capabilities of such an accomplished artist. Haltowitsch last night was to make a revelation, his intimacy with his instrument in the renditions of sonatas and symphonies, in difficult allegros and other classical numbers, leaving the audience to ponder over and admire the precious gift of touch so manifest in every Haltowitsch selection.

The artist was ably assisted at the piano by Henry Levine, whose fanciful accompaniments added splendor to a program that was in itself replete with the best known strains of eminent composers. The concert opened with Tchaikoff's sonata for piano and violin in G minor, the slow, plaintive notes of the adagio in the first number bursting out in tumultuous splendor in the second part, the largo. These were followed by "Symphonie Espagnole" in three sections, each exceeding one more beautiful than the former and at the conclusion of the adagio, a huge bouquet of fragrant sweet peas was presented to the blind player, who needed no eyes to see, but only ears to hear that his efforts were meeting with success and approval.

It would seem by the applause that "The Indian Snake Dance" in Haltowitsch's third group a typical American Indian dance, played on each of the four strings of the instrument, was a favorite selection. The artist was called upon to repeat but his evident desire to get to the next number, "A Hebrew Melody" justified itself when the clear, sweet strains of the latter reverberated through the hall and placed the appreciative gathering in a receptive mood for the concluding selections, "Ave Maria" and "Caprice No. 24" both of which served as fitting reminiscences of what had gone before. The artist obliged with one encore and left the stage, albeit still sightless, but not blind to the plaudits of his admiring listeners, for whom he had provided an evening of excellent and refreshing entertainment.

The complete program follows:

Sonata for Piano and Violin in G minor..... G. Tchaikoff

ANDOVER ASSOCIATION AT ELIOT CHURCH

Charles H. Randall, serving as moderator, opened the annual meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers, which was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Eliot Union Congregational church. The transaction of routine business, the election of officers, and addresses of unusual interest, marked the meeting, one of the best attended in recent years.

Rev. Richard Peters, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, opened the afternoon session with devotional services. Following the services the minutes of the last two meetings were read, and accepted by the gathering. The following men read the reports of the committees which they lead: Advisory, Rev. E. A. Jenkins; ministerial standing, Rev. John L. Keedy; work of the churches, Rev. John L. Lowell; social survey, Rev. A. C. McGiffert, Jr.; work for the young people, Rev. A. S. Wheelock.

The recommendation of the advisory committee that an amendment to the constitution be made admitting the independent Congregational churches to the association, met with favor, and it received a unanimous vote, in the affirmative. All Souls church was also admitted to the association, on the favorable report of the advisory committee.

Rev. Percy A. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, was received as a member from the Hampden Association. Rev. Harry J. Newton and Rev. Thomas J. Langford, were made members from the Essex Association.

Rev. A. H. Fuller of Ballardvale, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in a report that was accepted by the delegates. All of last year's officers were re-elected. In addition Rev. H. H. Epler of Methuen was voted a member of the committee on arrangements for a term of four years, to succeed Rev. E. C. Bartlett of Chelmsford. Rev. E. V. Rice of Andover was elected as delegate to the national convention. Rev. Newman Matthews was selected as delegate alternate.

Rev. A. H. Fuller was re-elected

Miss Ridley was awarded a gold medal at the New England Conservatory, and Miss Jordan is a graduate of the Fazlton piano-foete school. The Advancement of Science Keeps Up

New Help Found for the Weak and Debilitated

SCIENTIFIC progress has become so rapid that it is almost impossible for the average person to keep up with the wonderful discoveries that are leading to complete mastery of disease. We have come to feel that there is really no limit to what the tireless workers in the field of medical research can achieve.

The cause of the extreme weakness of body and mind and the nervous exhaustion that is so often seen in men and women, used for which they have not been able to account, has been found. And, what is much more important to the thousands thus afflicted, a way has been discovered to relieve these symptoms and promptly restore vigor to the body.

It has been found that the loss of weight, strength and energy that brings distress and depression of mind to countless men and women, is often due solely to the fact that the inorganic elements present in the food they eat are not properly utilized by the millions of little cells of which our tissues are composed. When these cells fail to receive the proper amount of these inorganic elements—when they are faced by a famine—they lessen their

THIS POOR MAN IS FORCED TO N.Y. COUPLES DANCE OUT COURT HIS OWN WIFE

MRS. HELEN DUDLEY

BY ROY GIBBONS
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, April 25.—Facing John H. Dudley here is the most unusual problem of courtship that ever confronted a love-lorn swain.

For it's up to Dudley to woo and to win his own legally wedded wife.

That sentence has been imposed on him by a Chicago court.

If Dudley's woeing wins—then his wife, home and happiness will be his.

And if he fails—Mrs. Dudley will be allowed unrestrained to live at the home of her parents while Dudley in loneliness tries his own breakfast bacon and longs for the life that might have been.

How It Started

A few days ago Dudley and Helen Peterson, 18, felt the bite of spring, went to Crown Point, Indiana's, Green Grotto, and were married.

But within a week married life pried the youthful bride. And Dudley found himself alone in his little flat.

Straightway he stoned Dudley into court. Helen's parents, he declared, were holding the bride incommunicado against her will. And the husband demanded a writ of habeas corpus.

Came into court the bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson, accompanied by the sheriff.

"I don't love John as a wife should," the bride testified. "I hadn't intended to marry him at all. But it was a nice day and I was passing his house on my way to work, so I thought I'd just drop in and say hello."

"And he said: 'Let's get married! It was such a nice day, I didn't feel much like going to work. So we went to Crown Point. I left him in my own tree till a week later."

Then Helen's mother broke in.

"The marriage was not the act of God," she interpolated. "Helen will get rid of her husband as quietly as possible and go away as a widow."

"Case dismissed," announced Judge Sabath. "I don't believe this girl is being held against her will. So I'm not going to issue any writ." And then—

"John, it is spring and love is in the air. Start courting your wife all over. You will send her flowers and candy and take her to the theatre."

"Then come back here, both of you. Let me know then how you feel about the situation."

And now Dudley's playing Romeo.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Master Gabriel, in "Capt. Kiddie" at the B. F. Keith's theatre, this week, met his match in a blustering, Latin American actress. The act is a complete novelty. This is one of the numerous attractions of the show, which holds such remarkable funnakers as Benton & Fields. These men are on the top causes of laughter. Heath & Crossman, who are more than ordinary attractions, with their wacky and "unfathomable" finish is one of the most striking in the show. "By Appointment" in the title of the classy act of Roland & Day. A real singing comedienne is Peggy Brooks, who scores with emphasis, while the M. E. G. Linn, trio in "The Hollywood" are among the best of the European arias. The hall opens with the Farrelles in a novelty.

MEIRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Pola Negri in "Hello, Dolly," her first American-made picture, is attracting capacity houses to the Merrimack Square theatre this week. In this stirring passion drama, with its wonderful settings and elaborate costumes, Miss Negri scores the greatest success of her career. The other feature of the current program is Buster Keaton in "The Blacksmith."

THE STRAND

Elaine Hammerstein in "Underneath" a highly dramatic story, with the star in one of her most interesting roles, and Eugene O'Brien in "John Smith" are the stellar attractions to be shown for the last time today at The Strand. If you are partial to the better class of picture plays then do not miss this offering. It's the kind of a film that will appeal to all.

For the last three days of the week, starting on Saturday, April 28, Alice Holloway's "Hannigan's Gal," starring Dorothy Phillips, will head the program. The other picture offered will be one of the newest and best of the Frank Mayo series. It's called "The Alter Stairs," and it has all the vigor and action of most of his creation.

In "Hannigan's Gal," Miss Phillips has the role of an untamed girl of the sea who inherited from her Irish father a spirit of hate and lawlessness, and from her mother the warm, romantic blood of the Spanish. As actress of her last picture, an emerging star, she caused the seas and knew not to obey any one's orders but her own instructions. It's a picture story that makes thrills thrill.

See it.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Supporting that you were obliged to tell the truth and nothing but the truth to everything that was asked you. Don't you think that you would be in a very peculiar position. Well that is the trying situation that confronts a popular leading man, Arthur Lillard, in his interpretation of the role that William Collier made famous in "Not Like Us, But the Truth." This pleasing comedy drama has without a doubt some of the most unique situations ever yet incorporated into a play, and they are being received with joy by capacity audiences at the Opera house this week. The laughs come so fast that audiences are charmed, so that they are not even ashamed, to buy two boxes of solid laughter.

If they are not, the audience is sure to be.

Let them try and get it. Major Curley said, seriously, "The ad is a waste of good time. Budget Commissioner Fox and I tried for a 1000-mile

RIALTO THEATRE

"The Ninety and Nine," one of the most spectacular forest fires ever filmed, is well on its way to success. A band of trapped woodsmen and their families, is having a great success at the Rialto theatre where it opened a four-day engagement Monday afternoon. On the same bill is another attractive story "The Dying Detective" and both make a well balanced bill.

CROWN THEATRE

An unusually fine cast was assembled for "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow." Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, which will be on view at the Crown theatre today for 2 days. The principals are Leatrice Joy, Eva Novak, June Elvidge, Theodore Roberts, Albert Roscoe, Alec Francis, John Miltern and Laurence Wheat.

DEMAND RAISE FOR BOSTON LABORERS

BOSTON, April 25.—City council members will attempt Friday to shade in Mayor Curley's $44,000,000 city budget in all final attempt to compel Mr. Curley to grant a 25-cent increase to 3500 laborers, mechanics and other humble grades of workers. In yesterday's budget session, members showed a disposition to stand or sit down such items as $14,000 for fire department complete motorization and $12,000 for Charles E. Elwood, full pensioner, "featherbed."

This budget also carries the usual grab of individual $500 increases to those in city employ whom the mayor and department heads think entitled to such treatment; the council would such some of these generous increases down to say $200 or $150, what remains of them to be shifted over to the prospective fund, out of which it is hoped to furnish the when-needed for the 15-cent raise to the laboring groups.

Some councilmen freely reiterated their conviction that it isn't at all imperative that motorization be completed this year and that the "caterpillar" could well wait another year, in view of the large sum expended for that improvement in recent years.

"Let them try and get it," Major Curley said, seriously. "The ad is a waste of good time. Budget Commissioner Fox and I tried for a 1000-mile Councilor Gillooly is pressing in the council for the 25-cent increase.

BROOKLINE VOTES AGAINST MOVIES

BOSTON, April 25.—The special election held in Brookline yesterday for the purpose of filling the vacancy of offices of town treasurer and collector caused by the death of George H. Ripley, Albert P. Briggs, town accountant, was elected. He defeated Edward A. McPatrick, executive secretary of the board of selectmen in a spirited contest.

The vote for treasurer was, Briggs 4324, McPatrick 2012, while the vote for collector was Briggs 4132, McPatrick 2916.

On the unofficial and informal referendum on the question of whether Brookline desires motion picture shows within the confines of the town limits, the town voted against such a proposition by a vote of more than 5 to 1. The vote was: No, 5624 Yes 1059.

The ballots cast totalled 7171, which is unusual for a specific election, although a special election last year attracted 7529 persons to the polls, of whom the voters yesterday, 55 were not by men and 62 by women.

Chesterfield RETTES

"It improved the condition of every one who was constipated"

Recent experiments explain action of Fleischmann's Yeast in relieving this common complaint

In three great scientific laboratories and hospitals, recent experiments were made on over 100 persons to test the effects of Fleischmann's Yeast on constipation.

It was found that the yeast mixes with the highly-nutritious, concentrated foods which form most of our modern diet, softening them and increasing their bulk. This greater bulk gently encourages the intestinal muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

That is why, according to the recently issued report of these tests, Fleischmann's Yeast "improved the condition of every one who had any degree of constipation." It simply assists Nature to restore normal, healthy conditions. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are eating Fleischmann's Yeast today. Physicians and hospitals are prescribing it in place of the dangerous drugs and cathartics which weaken the intestinal muscles and so actually increase the trouble.

"Though 58 I am feeling like a boy of 20"

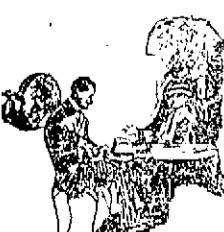

"For the last four years I had been suffering constantly with indigestion," writes a broker from Havana. "I could not go to the club at night. I had to give up all my pleasures. But since a friend of mine recommended to me to try Fleischmann's Yeast, I am back again on the same old footing. Though 58 years old I am feeling as if I were only 20—thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast."

Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle of treating constipation by gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to act for themselves.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Eat at least 2 or 3 cakes a day—plain or dissolved in water, milk, or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night.

Get several cakes at a time—they will keep in a cool, dry place for several days. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it. Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

COTTON MEN HOLD MEETING

Sec. Reserve Says Industrial History of N. E. Will Be Repeated in South

Calder Says Problem of Northern Mills is to Increase Output Per Man Hour

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 24.—A tour of the textile centers of the south by H. C. McServe, secretary of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers convinced him that the industrial history of New England would be repeated in the south, he reported at the annual meeting of the association which was opened here today. His trip, he said was made at the request of President Robert A. Morey of the association. It lasted more than two weeks and took him as far south as New Orleans. Textile centers were visited and textile conditions were studied.

John Calder of Lexington, a consulting engineer, addressing the convention on the subject of industrial relations said:

"The outstanding problem today of the northern cotton manufacturers is to increase the output per man hour in his mill in the face of statutory and economic limitations as compared with his competitors elsewhere. To do this he must encourage invention and secure and maintain superior machinery and plant facilities and efficient arrangement and utilization of the same."

Blaze Believed to Be of Incendiary Origin Summons Department to John Street—Excelsior Found Jammed Under Floors in Ramshackle Building

One of the worst fire hazards in the city was uncovered shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday when fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, was discovered in the rear of a three-story brick block numbered 20-41-45 John street, owned by the Union National bank.

Great bundles of new excelsior were found jammed under the floors in the rear of the building, a wooden ell which juts out about 10 feet into an open area and more highly inflammable material was pulled out of cracks and crevices by firemen. To all appearances a deliberate attempt was made to destroy the building.

George B. Chandler, assistant cashier of the Union bank, watched the fire.

It looks like a deliberate attempt on the part of someone to burn the property," he said.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 5

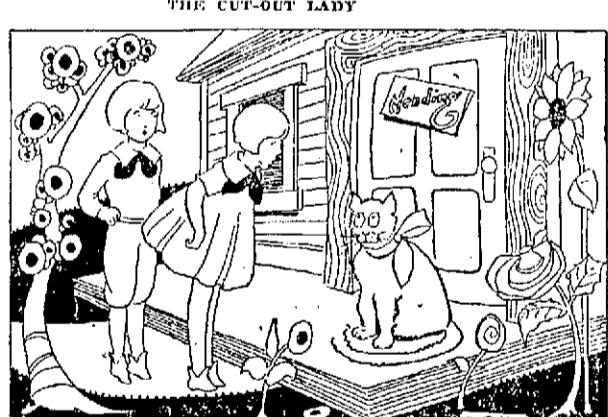

Jack, of course, was very much excited over the possibility of visiting the land of Miney Moe. "Oh!" he shouted, "please tell me how I can go there. Which road do I take?" "No road at all," replied Eeny Meeny. "Just wait until my magic rope starts to rise." And the rope began to wiggle upward.

Nobody can blame Jack for being a bit startled as he watched the long, brownish cord stand straight up in the air, and slowly move up and up. "Why, I never saw a rope do that before," he exclaimed. "Where is it going?" "Right straight to the land of Miney Moe," replied Eeny Meeny.

And then the old, friendly man sang a little verse: "If to the land of Miney Moe is where you'd really like to go, just grab the rope and hang on tight. These woods will soon be out of sight." Jack paused a minute and then took hold of the rope. In an instant he was sailing up. (Continued.)

"IS THE CUT-OUT LADY IN?" ASKED NANCY

"Let's take a heart to the Cut-Out Lady," said Nancy. "Yes, let's," echoed Nick. So he reached up and pulled another flat sugar heart from the tree on the floating island.

They read the verse on it and it said: "I love you."

"So they got into their saucer boat with the silver spoons for oars and rowed back to the shore of the custard lake with the patty shells on the shore and started up Sugar-Loaf Hill."

"We must be nearly there," said Nancy. "The Cut-Out Lad's house can't be far away now. We've been traveling for ever and ever so long."

And then at that very minute they saw it. It was made of cardboard and all the flowers and trees were cut-outs. Over the door was a sign which said "Mending" in neat letters. The sign was in neat letters, not the mending.

On the doorsill was the coconut cat, asleep. No doubt his mistress had stuck new coconut all over him after the fight, for he looked as good as new. Not a bit of his sponge-cake body showed anywhere.

Suddenly he opened his eyes and sat up. "Miney-moe," he said. "Who are you and what do you want?"

"Is the Cut-Out Lad in?" asked Nancy.

"You here I am!" said the Cut-Out Lady and she appeared in the doorway sideways, of course—for having only one side and no thickness, she wished

DOG SAVES
GIRL'S LIFE

ADDITIONAL PATROLMEN

Grasped Canine When She
Began to Sink in Quag-
mire and Held Fast All Night

Girl and Dog Found Early
This Morning Near Ex-
haustion at Brookfield

BUCKFIELD, April 25.—The life of little Florence Cederic was credited today to her shepherd dog. Seeking Mayflowers in the woods south of here yesterday, the child was caught in a quagmire. She began to sink and grasped the dog. The grasp became an embrace as Florence went deeper into the swamp until, with the dog, "King" standing by to his task, she sank no more. Through the night child and dog were held fast, the animal faithful to his charge.

Today a brother of the girl, searching after others had gone to rest from a night long hunt, found little Florence holding "King." The child was in the swamp to her armpit. The dog's legs were deep in the mire. Florence was exhausted and speechless for several hours, but recovered and called for her dog. The animal also responded to treatment.

Mayflowers found by the child and dropped as she pressed on for more had led her brother to the place where she was found.

Florence is 12 years old. She set out to look for the flowers on the shores of Lake Quabog soon after returning from school yesterday and when she failed to appear at supper, the family became concerned, yet the fact that "King" had not come back gave them some assurance that she would be found.

State constable and the local police were called to search and the neighbors and others joined in the hunt. They groped through the woods most of the night, clinging to the child, nor did either sight nor sound of her developed and the search was suspended by most.

But the child's brother was in the woods again at daybreak, seeking traces, and found the flowers. He pressed on calling his brother. But neither the boy nor the child, nor the bark of the dog responded until it was much later than the time that he knew the search was at an end. They were exhausted by their efforts to make the reply that probably would have brought searchers to their side several times during the night.

TALKED ON THE
STUDY OF HISTORY

IS LOWER TODAY

Miss Blanche A. Cheney, an instructor at the State Normal school, gave a very interesting lecture to the students of the school today on the subject, "The Study of History as a Preparation for Citizenship." Today's lecture was the fifth of a series of six on the general theme, "Adapting the Curriculum to Chamber Social Needs." The next and last lecture will be given May 21st by Miss Grace G. Pierce, supervisor of music in Arlington. Her subject will be "The Place of Music in Present-Day Education."

Miss Cheney dealt with a subject well known to her, as she has taught history for many years, and she treated it skillfully. At the close of the lecture she was given the thanks of the school by a pupil specially delegated for this work.

WILL REPAIR ROADBED

A harsh winter review will start to work on the roadbeds and rails of the street car company's tracks, between St. Mary's church, Collingsville, and Lakeview park, tomorrow. The roadbed has been severely pounded by the conditions caused by the hard winter and it is expected that the crew will be on the job for three weeks at least before the rail is in condition for the heavy summer traffic to the lake.

ROYAL ARCANUM WILL OPEN FORTY SIXTH ANNUAL COUNCIL SESSION HERE TOMORROW

More Than 200 Representatives of Grand Council of Massachusetts Expected at Liberty Hall—Mayor Will Extend Formal Welcome to Visiting Delegates at Opening of First Day's Session—Banquet and Entertainment

JOHN M. BRENNAN,
Grand Vice Regent.

More than 200 representatives of the grand council of the Royal Arcanum of Massachusetts are expected to attend the forty-sixth annual council session, which opens in Liberty hall, Memorial Auditorium, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Headquarters for the grand council have been secured at local hotels. Grand Regent Henry L. Hoadley has designated the Hon. Howard Avery of Norfolk, Va., to represent him at the convention. Mr. Avery is at present a member of the council economics committee on credentials will be in session in liberty hall from 9 a.m. Thursday morning until the close of the session.

Mr. Hoadley's address was on the subject of "The Administration of Criminal Law in this Country Today." After describing certain crimes that make the knowledge of criminal law necessary to everyone, Mr. Bushnell said, "There has been a great deal of talk about the jury system and especially of that in connection with the administration of criminal law because it is on the jury system that the whole system of criminal law rests. It is not in the hands of judges, or district attorneys, it is in the hands of the people of the county from whom the jurors are drawn." Mr. Bushnell stated that the days were gone when the execution of the law rested upon the judges and district attorneys. "It is upon you," he continued, "and people like you who are directly responsible for the execution of the law.

SAYS CITY COUNCIL HAS RIGHT TO CLOSE WORTHEN STREET IF IT DEEMS NECESSITY EXISTS

Body Receives Opinion From Solicitor O'Sullivan and Defers Final Action on Saco-Lowell Petition for Another Week—Conference of All Interested Parties Set for Thursday Afternoon

Legally, the city council has the whose property might be damaged in right to close New Kinsman street and a portion of Worthen street as petitioned for by the Saco-Lowell shops if, in its best judgment, public necessity and convenience require it.

This is the upshot of the first part of an opinion rendered the council last night by City Solicitor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan on the all-important question now hanging fire and which did not reach the settlement stage during the meeting as was prophesied earlier in the day.

The solicitor's opinion, a voluminous document, quoting freely from accepted cases in point, covered every possible legal phase of the matter and was deemed of such import that the city clock was instructed to provide for each meeting with a copy of it before next Tuesday, to which date the question was laid on the table.

With reference to the legal liability of the city, with respect to the abutments on the streets proposed to be closed, as well as other remonstrants

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT CHILDREN BROADCASTING PERMITS GRANTED BY WIRE DESPATCHES

Read School Papers Daily at Radio Station in New York

The schoolboy radio fan now has his hands not only in receiving, but in broadcasting. He's broadcasting his own wit and wisdom.

This innovation in radio has been brought about through the co-operation of broadcasting station WHN at Ridgewood, N. Y., and a local school.

Through it, a school children's radio forum is held daily.

And it's proving to be a popular feature of WHN's schedule. It consists in the personal reading of their own compositions by picked children of the school. Not only young radio fans, but boys and girls who prove their ability, are chosen to lecture to other children through the microphone.

The result, teachers of the Ridgewood school say, has been an increasing diligence on the part of the pupils in the school. For what child does not care to be thrilled by the experience of broadcasting his or her own composition to thousands of other children for miles and miles around.

SECOND DAY'S SALE AND EXHIBIT OF THE WORK OF THE BLIND IN LIBERTY HALL

Liberty hall presented a beautiful appearance today as it was opened for the second day's sale and exhibition of the work of the blind. Rugs, fancy work, baskets and numerous other articles were fascinatingly displayed over the long tables which range around the walls of the hall, and the tea room tables were each decorated with yellow jonquils before a background of potted greenery. Generous women from the various organizations in Lowell were on the job early to arrange the goods for sale and when the doors opened a goodly crowd of purchasers and interested on-lookers flocked into the hall to look over the display.

The demonstrators from the workshops of the blind were on hand early and they attracted considerable at-

Mileage Book Order Revoked

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Orders of the interstate commerce commission requiring railroads to begin sale of interchangeable mileage books at 20 per cent reduction on regular passenger fare rates on May 15, were revoked today and the effective date of the mileage book sale postponed until Jan. 1, 1924. The action of the commission which follows the granting of an injunction in Boston against the commission's order, resulted directly from an appeal for postponement by western carriers. Though the court order only restrained sale of the books by 60 eastern railroads, the commission decided to forestall the confused situation which would arise from sale and use of the mileage in other parts of the country and from possible court action on behalf of western and southern railroads.

SOLICITOR'S OPINION ON SACO-LOWELL PROPOSITION MOST IMPORTANT DOCUMENT

The opinion submitted to the city general laws, which recites as follows: "Except as otherwise provided by law, city councils shall have the powers of towns."

And section 49, chapter 43 of the general laws (plan 43): "The legislative powers of the city shall be vested in a city council."

But it is contended that the only power conferred on the city council by the plan is to discontinue such town ways, as are no longer required for public necessity and convenience.

Chapter 82, general laws, provides, and the decisions rendered by our courts hold, whether in the laying out of a highway, or the discontinuance of it, that there shall be an adjudication.

In the event that the petition is granted, and I respectfully submit the following:

The petitioner prays that a part of Worthington street, that is, between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal, and New Kitson street, in its entirety, be discontinued.

With reference to the authority of the city council to grant said petition, the authority of cities and towns to lay out, alter, extend and discontinue town ways is expressly granted by the statutes of this commonwealth.

Section 21, of said chapter 82, confers upon the city council of a city, the right to discontinue a town way.

Section 22, 23, and 24, of a town or the city council of a city may discontinue a town way or a private way.

Section 30, of said chapter 82, provides for application to the county commissioners by a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way.

Section 34. Upon the application in writing of a person aggrieved by the refusal of a town to discontinue a town way, or private way, the county commissioners order such way to be discontinued.

The above section applies to cities. Section 33, chapter 82, general laws.

Under our system of public ways, a town way is a public way laid out in proceedings, in which a town or city has original jurisdiction.

Boston & Albany R. R. v. Boston, 140 Mass. 88.

And is distinguished from a highway, in that a highway is laid out, altered or discontinued by the authorities having jurisdiction throughout the county.

Butcher's Assoc. v. Boston, 139 Mass. 290. Dedham v. county commissioners 108 Mass. 202.

From my examination of the records of the engineering office of the city of Lowell, as outlined on plan attached to this opinion, I am satisfied that New Kitson street, and that part of Worthington street between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal are town ways.

The city council of the city of Lowell, therefore, may exercise jurisdiction of said petition for discontinuing New Kitson street, and that part of Worthington street between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal under the power expressly granted by Section 21, above quoted, and under authority of Section 2, chapter 39 of the laying out, altering, relocating or discontinuing a public way.

The city council is best able to determine and advise upon a balance of all considerations bearing upon the petition, whether the discontinuance of New Kitson street and that part of Worthington street from Broadway to the northern bank of the Western canal would be for the public interest or not. "The power to vacate a street is to be exercised in the public interest and not for the sole purpose of having a private park." 100 Lillian on Municipal Corporations, Section 1160, F. 1535.

And to determine whether common convenience and necessity no longer require said ways.

"It is not to be presumed that they will discontinue a highway once laid out, unless the circumstances in favor of the discontinuance are decidedly preponderate." Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254.

And with the city council, therefore, the law places the decision. Section 32, general laws, provides,

"In the event that the city council should determine to discontinue New Kitson street and that part of Worthington street from Broadway to the northern bank of the Western canal, and should sustain the petitioning person, sustaining damage to his property by said discontinuance, shall be entitled to recover the same."

Section 24, Chapter 82, General Laws. Under the decisions in this commonwealth, one has the right to recover on account of the discontinuance of a public way, if that person suffers a special and peculiar damage to his property, otherwise.

Smith v. Boston, 7 Cushing 254. Natick Gas Light Co. v. Natick, 175 Mass. 215.

One must show that some parcel of his land is diminished in value by the discontinuance. The lessening of the convenience of approach, if the land is an open field, or if the public way is not special damage, though if the diminution in value is caused by the loss of the right to maintain in the street, particular drains, pipes, conduits, or like appliances, recovery could be had.

Natick Gas Light Co. v. Natick, 175 Mass. 215.

It is specifically provided, however, in Section 24, Chapter 82, of the General Laws, as follows:

"If a town way is discontinued the persons upon whose application such way is laid out, relocated, altered or discontinued . . . is closed up give such town security, satisfactory to the petitioners, that they will indemnify and save the town for all damages and charges which it is obliged to pay by reason thereof, and all such damages and charges shall be repaid to the town by the persons making such application."

This section applies to cities. In the event, therefore, that the city council determine to grant said petition, it may demand from the petitioner, satisfactory security that the petitioner will indemnify and save harmless the city of Lowell, from all damages and charges which it may be obliged to pay by reason of the discontinuance of said ways.

Concluding, I would advise, that should the city council determine and adjudge that it would be for the public interest and that common convenience and safety require the discontinuance of New Kitson street in its entirety, and that part of Worthington street between Broadway and the northern bank of the Western canal as prayed for in the petition of the Saco-Lowell company, that in such event, the city solicitor be instructed to prepare proper vote or resolution to necessity do, or do not require in the application of the power in the case of a highway and the exercise of the power with respect to a town way as to the requisite of formal adjudication that public convenience and necessity require the action prayed for.

I am of the opinion that it is within the province of the city council of the Saco-Lowell company, that in such event, the city solicitor be instructed to prepare proper vote or resolution to necessity do, or do not require in the

Another Million Dollar Tip On Making Good Candies

BY ROT GIBBONS

N.E.A. Service Staff Writer
CHICAGO, April 25.—"When people ask me how to succeed I answer them in terms of candy: You cannot make good candy unless you use good ingredients, and you cannot make a success of life unless you put into it the best there is in you."

This advice comes from Mrs. Ora Snyder, "America's Candy Queen," who has made an initial investment of five cents grow into a million-dollar candy business in 13 years. Mrs. Snyder is writing a score of recipes for "Mrs. Snyder's home-made candies" for readers of "The Sun."

"For example," says Mrs. Snyder, "the best substitute for butter, in making candy is—butter! And if a recipe calls for cream, you should use cream—milk will not do." Mrs. Snyder's monthly bill for the one item of cream is $10.00.

She gives other hints to home candy-makers:

"Use aluminum kettles, as they are not so likely to burn."

"In cooking fudges, caramels and brittles, use a kettle large enough to permit lively boiling without running over."

"Use a square layer cake pan in which to mold candy before cutting, and be sure to butter the pan well."

"Too much flavoring is worse than not enough."

"Never add flavoring while candies are being cooked, as the alcohol in the mixture evaporates, detracting from the flavor."

"Candy must cool quickly; a marble slab is best for cooling."

"Never make a large batch of candy and try to cool it on a small platter."

Dandruff and Itching

Scalp is Best Relieved

With the aid of Sulphur, not common sulphur, which contains too much arsenic, not sulphur as you find it in ointments and liquid scalp remedies because it does not get down under your scalp. But (precipitated) purified sulphur in LIQUID as you get in Griff-Penn's Hair Grower. Without hardly any rubbing the sulphur penetrates to the scalp, purifying and strengthening them.

Dandruff CANNOT be cured and "any sort" of soapsuds only causes MORE dandruff and itching and weakens the hair. Griff-Penn's Hair Grower will give you the BEST relief and will help you grow hair again. It is now being used by THOUSANDS of Lowell men and women. MRS. ORA SNYDER, AMERICA'S CANDY QUEEN.

"Don't put candy in a refrigerator, as it will absorb the moisture."

"Candies containing cream, butter or molasses should not be cooked on too hot a fire, or they will stick to the kettle."

"Stir gently candies with cream, butter or molasses as ingredients; violent stirring will make them 'sugar.'"

ELECTION OF ASSISTANT SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC BONE OF CONTENTION AT SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Mayor Donovan Again States His Opposition to Salary Increases—School Board to Be Represented at Hearing at State House Friday on Proposition to Borrow $700,000 Beyond Debt Limit for New South End School

At a regular meeting of the school board held last evening Mayor Donovan Friday.

can again stated emphatically that he Meeting In Detail will not favor salary increases this year. He said the budget has been made out and he will not favor a supplementary budget unless something of a very important and urgent nature develops. This statement was made by H. J. Hayes when a request from a committee of elementary teachers for a revision of the salary schedule in accordance with experience was presented. This request brought forth considerable arguments as some members of the board were in favor of granting it, while others favored postponement of action. It was finally voted to lay the matter on the table until figures as to cost be verified by the committee on rules.

Another matter that added zest to the meeting was the proposition of electing an assistant supervisor of music. This resulted in a heated argument between Mr. Delaney and Supt. Molloy, but the matter was finally laid on the table. A proposed salary increase of $100 a year for masters of primary schools was also laid on the table. The board favored attending the legislative hearing on the proposed $700,000 loan beyond the debt limit for a new school in the South End district.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you get a bottle of "Wright's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around so get busy with Wright's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days—Adv.

remainder of the year. He favored the proposition, but owing to the fact that the budget has been made out, he recommended that it go into effect at the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Mr. Riley offered a motion that the resolution go into effect in the early part of September. Mr. Brulin favored the motion. Mr. Delaney stated that other requests for salary increases were already before the board. Mr. Riley said this was not a request for a salary increase, but simply for readjustment of salaries. It was at this point that Mayor Donovan stated he would not favor salary increases this year as he did not favor a supplementary budget.

Mrs. Pearson offered an amendment to Mr. Riley's motion, so as to embody the superintendent's recommendation. Mr. Delaney offered an amendment to Mrs. Pearson's amendment that the matter be laid on the table and it was so voted.

On motion of Mr. Riley, it was voted to appoint a sub-committee on rules.

On motion of Mr. Delaney it was voted to instruct the superintendent to write to the various city school boards of the state to find out what rules exist in the said cities for elementary school teachers.

Mr. Harris was granted permission to serve luncheon to the high school regiment at the close of the Memorial Day parade. The Teachers' organization sent a communication asking that the board request the city treasurer to pay off school teachers by checks, the said checks to be mailed every month to the respective homes of the teachers.

The matter was referred to the business agent. Major Jevs was granted a leave of absence from May 7 to 11 to attend a convention of Boys' clubs in Washington, D. C. James O'Donoghue was granted a first grade teacher's certificate.

Summer Playgrounds

The board voted to confer with members of the park board relative to the summer playgrounds. It was stated that last year there was some friction between employees of the school department and those of the park department and it is an endeavor to prevent a recurrence of this kind this year that the conference will be held. It was voted to hire the services of Althen's, the Lowell Cadet and the U. S. Cavalry Co. band for the field day exercises.

ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER For Children

The use of Allen's Lung Healer in the treatment of children's coughs and colds has been so gratifying in hundreds of mothers, that its reputation as a dependable remedy for the children is firmly established with those mothers. Being absolutely free from harmful drugs, it is safe for the youngest babies.

For eliminating those congested conditions of the lungs and breathing tubes, which are so terrifying to the young mother, it is especially effective.

Every mother in this broad land should know and use this grand guardian of the lungs. It should be kept in the home at all times, ready for immediate use on the first signs of a cold. A few doses at the right time will almost invariably prevent the development of a cold into something more serious.

structed to purchase from the public buildings' department 13 tables for domestic science at the Bartlett school at a cost of $61.

Donald McIntyre, supervisor of physical education read a lengthy report of the recent convention held in Springfield, which he attended, and his report was accepted and placed on file.

The matter of the status of Fred Wiggin, who is now classified as head of the wood working department at the Vocational school was again taken up by Mr. Brulin. Mr. Molloy read letters from former Principal Dooley of the school and others to the effect that Mr. Wiggin was elected head of the department in 1911 by the then school board. Mr. Brulin said that this was as there is nothing in the school records to show he was duly elected by a school board as head of the department, he should not be considered as head of that department and therefore is not entitled to the $100 increase recently given him. No action was taken on this matter.

Our work-shops come next. They are under the direct supervision of the state and offer opportunities for the eighties to earn their own living. In this connection it is well worth noting that many of the blind have gone to work in the regular industries for there are many positions that call for skill with the hands regardless of sight.

At this point Mr. Riley made a motion that the salaries of primary school principals be increased $100 a year instead of $50, which is to take effect Jan.

Dr. Slaughter moved an amendment to the motion, making the increase $150. After some discussion on the matter Mr. Mullin moved an amendment to Dr. Slaughter's amendment, that the matter be laid on the table, and it was voted.

"The schools for the blind are too expensive to maintain," said Mr. Riley.

Mr. Delaney brought out that at the last meeting of the board it was voted to instruct the superintendent to submit at the next meeting a list of candidates for the position of assistant music teacher. He requested that the superintendent comply with the instructions given him. Mr. Molloy argued that the names of candidates should not be made public until the board decides whether or not an election will take place. Mr. Delaney stated that it mattered not whether an election could take place, the board had voted to get the list of candidates and he requested that the superintendent comply with the order. "I see no need of an additional teacher of music," said Mr. Molloy. "That is not the question," replied Mr. Delaney.

The mayor asked the superintendent to comply with the vote of the board and the latter stated he was ready to recommend Miss Marion M. Ryan and Miss Adelaide Walsh. Mr. Delaney moved that a ballot be cast for the election of an assistant music teacher for the elementary schools, the election to become operative Sept. 1. Mrs. Pearson offered an amendment that the matter be laid on the table and it was voted.

Will Attend Hearing

Mr. Delaney stated that the legislative committee will hold a hearing at the state house Friday on the request of the council for authority to borrow $700,000 beyond the debt limit for the erection of a new school in the South End district and it was voted that the members of the board, the superintendent, the business agent, the principal of the schools in the district and the city collector attend the hearing in favor of the bill. At 11:15 o'clock adjournment was taken.

Exhibit Work of Blind In Liberty Hall

behind. A large number of baskets and other material was also sold, and it was a tired group of workers who cleaned up after the doors had been closed.

Mr. Robert E. Bramhall, director of the state department for the blind, attended the exhibition during the evening and he complimented the workers and praised the people of the city for their staunch support of a worthy affair. He will be present again this afternoon and evening.

The tea and coffee table was also a big attraction last night. This table represents the work of James Ridleholme, of Cambridge, a veteran of the World War who lost his sight by the bullet of a sniper which completely severed the optic nerves of both eyes.

Mr. Ridleholme still suffers considerable pain from the bullet wound but has gone along making the best of his condition and has built up quite a trade in teas and coffees.

Miss Rose E. Trainor, a blind representative of the state department of education for the blind, is in charge of the Lowell exhibition and sale, and in an interview today with a Sun reporter in regard to the work of the department and their position regarding the blind throughout the state, she said: "The work is split into five phases. The home teaching department comes first. There are five home teachers who are without sight. They go into the homes of the blind who are too old to attend school or feel that they would not like to attend a school where most of the attendants are children. Our home teachers, in their work, find their biggest problem is not with the blind but with the families of the blind, and they must educate the families that the blind person is neither helpless nor hopeless.

"The last phase is the prevention of blindness. Much has been done along this line with new-born babies, for a little care at birth may save the sight of many children who otherwise would grow up blind. Then the children of school age are watched over and separate classes are held for those who have poor sight, larger type study books and general supervision saves what sight these have and they graduate from their regular schools without having to attend a school for the blind person in neither helpless nor hopeless.

"The Euler room is the next phase. In this we sell the goods manufactured by the blind and charge no commission for the sale.

"Our work-shops come next. They are under the direct supervision of the state and offer opportunities for the

there are many positions that call for skill with the hands regardless of sight.

"With equal opportunity," said Miss Trainor, "a blind person can be an equal contributor to any community. He can contribute his share in a constructive way as well as a financial way to the community. He can be a member of the city council, the legislature and the United States government. The blind have taken their places in every walk of life, but with whole hearted, intelligent co-operation from the public, much more might be accomplished for the work. We are not looking for pity or sentimental sympathy."

In regard to the position of the blind in the city, she said: "I do not hesitate to say before the closing hour arrives, that I believe our street beggar meets thousands of people where the self-respecting, industrious blind worker meets but a dozen during the day and we have numbers of cases where financial help has been offered through our office, but the blind person has refused for some reason. Among our blind beggars are healthy, able-bodied men who could work if they so desired. The sad part of it all is that we have people taking blindness so that they may get their support by begging. Society itself is to

"New car, new clothes" is an old story to Friend Husband. And recognition of woman's love of neatness in all things has suggested to one motor

first ride, and detracts from her idea of the car's value.

"To make certain that each Velle will reach its owner immaculately clean and ready for Milady, a sort of super-inspection has been established at the Velle plant in Milne, Ill. A very finicky individual, who doesn't care how much trouble he causes, inspects the cars with the attitude of a new cancer. So much as a tiny spot on upholsterer calls for an explanation and, if necessary, new fabric. The body finish must be perfect. The driving compartment, steering wheel and controls must be absolutely clean. A tiny fleck of enamel or nickel appears as terrible to this inspector as it would to the most particular purchaser. He goes over every inch of exterior and interior in his painstaking search for little things.

"He found that several workmen in the finishing department were wearing old, soiled caps and promptly issued an order that put everybody in brand new headgear. He had seen that when ever one of these workmen chanced to lean his head against a bright finish that it left a faint trace of grease.

"Such care is certain to interest the new car buyer who has grown accustomed to explanation that you can't help little things happening in a great big dirty automobile factory. The letters 'OK' mean more than just 'good enough' at the Velle shipping platform."

TO MANAGE RENTAL OF SPALDING PARK

A meeting of the high school alumni association was held in Headmaster Harris' office in the high school yesterday afternoon. From this committee, another committee was formed to take care of the rental of Spalding Park for sporting affairs. The members of this committee are Edward W. Trull, Bennett Silverblatt, Arthur L. Enos, Charles H. McIntire and Henry H. Harris, member ex-officio. This committee has already received several applications for permission to use the park from local and out-of-town organizations, one of which is the International Fireworks company of Newark, N. J., who desire to stage their immense pageant, "Scraping the Navy and the Dawn of Peace," at the park for three nights during the summer. No definite action has been taken on any of these requests as yet.

Ralph Ranch of the Illinois Construction company reported that the fence around Spalding park was completely renovated and in good shape and that a new gateway had been cut in the fence on Village street to provide entrance and exit to automobiles. He also reported that the west bleachers were entirely made over and were stronger than they ever were before, that the east bleachers were being repaired and that the grandstand has been strengthened structurally, the roof put in good shape, and that in the central portion, the flooring has been renewed and the seats replaced.

The park is now sufficiently renovated to make it a good athletic field for the city. Permits will be granted to organizations who desire to use the park on days when the high school is not scheduled to play there and the money received for this rental will go to further the improvements at the park. At the present time the finances of the alumni organization are at a low ebb and unless those who have pledged to contribute come across with the action money, it is feared that not much more can be done for the athletic field. Mr. Harris has high hopes though, that the necessary money will be forthcoming and that the rest of the park may be fixed up and that both wings of the grandstand may be reboarded and new seats put in place.

It was called to the attention of the meeting that several degradations had already been made on the lumber supply at the park and it is expected that a carpenter will be appointed in the near future to act as a watchman and to do general work about the field.

ANCIENT ORDER OF UNITED WORKMEN

Albert W. David and John Toye of this city, represented Lowell Lodge No. 22 of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen at the 46th annual convention held in Boston yesterday, with delegates present from New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. Mr. David was honored by the delegates in session by being placed on the committee of laws.

The financial standing of the Lodge is in excellent condition, reported Mr. David. In commenting on the conference, over a million dollars each year is being paid out in death benefits. The total membership of the Lodge is estimated at 15,000. One hundred and ninety delegates were in conference. The increased insurance rates for fraternal lodges caused the convention to adjourn. Lodge has a membership of over 300 in this Lodge, which is the pioneer of fraternal insurance organizations in this country, having been started in 1868.

TOLD INTERESTING STORY OF EUROPE

Delightful impressions of Europe, gained in his travels on the continent last summer, were given before the Educational club yesterday afternoon by Frederick R. Woodward, sub-master of the high school at a meeting held at the Central Methodist church.

Mr. Woodward most interestingly told of many places visited by tourists, including a thrilling account of a trip to the crater of Mt. Vesuvius from Naples, glimpse of the island of Capri, Rome, Florence, Venice, Paris, Versailles, Madrid and other places which gained prominence during the war were especially enjoyed, as was his description of London life of the present day.

The desolation in northern France even as late as last summer would create sympathy for that country, he said, in speaking of many battlefields visited.

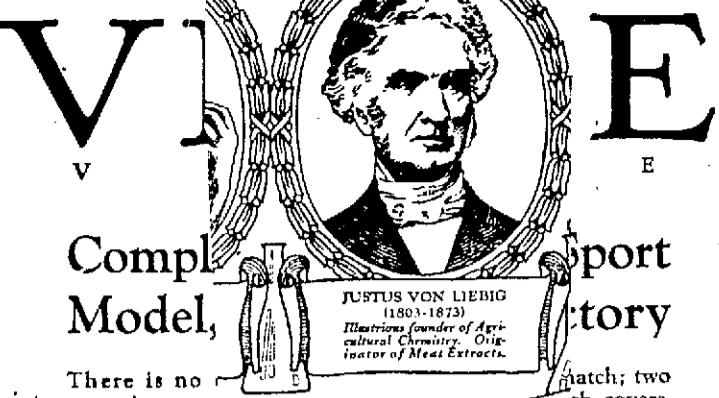

THE BUICK HAS AN IDEAL REPAIR SHOP

In keeping with the Buick automobile policy of "service," the Lowell agents offer to Lowell motorists a more complete and better service than ever offered before. The Lowell Buick Co. has an equipment which is second to none in a city of Lowell's size. A more spacious repair shop is seldom found in even much larger cities than Lowell. The completeness with which the local Buick repair shop is equipped is often a complete surprise to car owners entering it for the first time.

New Record in Freight Loadings

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Revenue freight loadings on railroads during the week ending April 14 totalled 946,759 cars, a new high record for this season of the year. The car service division of the American Railway association, which compiled the report, figured that the loadings were greater than those of any week on the roads since November, in addition to being 246,604 cars greater than loadings of the corresponding week of 1922, and 244,643 cars more than were loaded during the corresponding week of 1921.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S SPEECH

President Harding's address before a gathering of the Associated Press at New York yesterday, is one of the best he ever delivered. It has bold and positive statement and apparent firmness of purpose, qualities which have been sadly lacking in many, if not all, of the president's political utterances. He comes out squarely in favor of having the United States join the world court provided by the League of Nations and to participate in the work of that international body as a tribunal of arbitration.

It will be remembered that the president, during his campaign for election, made the statement that he would favor an international court of justice. He now claims to be fulfilling that pledge in leading the United States into the League of Nations court, although the overwhelming majority by which he was elected was given as a repudiation of the proposition to join the League of Nations.

The president will have difficulty in disposing of the arguments to the effect that we cannot enter the world court without eventually entering the League of Nations or getting our government entangled in European controversies. This is where the difficulty will arise, but the president makes the positive statement that neither he nor his party has the remotest idea of countenancing any move to enter the League of Nations, either "by the side door, the back door, or the cellar door." It allows that the opponents of the League of Nations have clouded the whole situation and perhaps, in a measure, they have and hence it now remains for the president to clarify the situation and convince everybody that the best thing this nation can do is to enter the international court of justice. We are all open to conviction.

The president certainly presents some strong arguments in support of his attitude on this question and he adds that the matter is so clearly within the scope of our national policies and our friendly relations with foreign nations, that it should not be treated as a party question. That also is true, because it is a matter concerning the welfare of this government which cannot be expected to be affected by party politics.

The president is starting upon a speaking tour of the country and he has probably made one of his best speeches in this opening before the members of the Associated Press. It remains to be seen whether, in the other addresses that he is to deliver, he will betray the wobbling propensity for which he was noted in his political campaign. He is not now conducting a political campaign although his speeches may be regarded as paving the way for his recombination and hence he will be more reserved and less likely to step over than he would in the heat of a political campaign.

FORTUNATE SPRINGFIELD
The city of Springfield is fortunate in having a fine art museum as a result of the philanthropic efforts and contributions of the late George Walter Vincent Smith. It seems that when a young man, Smith had a great taste for fine works of art. Entering an art gallery in New York, he was so impressed by one of the paintings on exhibition, that he purchased it and made it the beginning of a wonderful collection of art treasures which are now owned by the city of Springfield and housed in a magnificient building. By the recent death of this art connoisseur and public benefactor, the city of Springfield, on the death of his widow, will come into possession of his entire estate, estimated to be about one million dollars, the income of which is to be used for the care and maintenance of the Springfield Art Museum and the collection of art works housed therein.

This is certainly a signal honor and benefit for the city of Springfield, and one that will give it great prominence as a center of art culture.

The Billerica fire department put up a game battle Sunday in fighting the forest fire that swept over Gilson Hill and the lowlands in the vicinity. When such a fire sweeps over 500 acres and when dwellings in its path are saved, then the firemen deserve congratulations. That is what happened in Billerica Sunday.

The park department should make a great success of the summer playgrounds, if we are to judge from the list of supervisors approved to work. These playgrounds should teach discipline and present sufficient attractions to keep the children away from the dangers of the streets.

It is to be hoped that those who are buying so largely of local real estate are not doing so for the sole purpose of raising the rent. Our local assessors will be justified in adopting rigorous methods in dealing with rack-renting landlords.

The location of the new Edison school—when it comes—will be another knotty problem for the school board. The centre of the school population has changed since the opening of St. Peter's parochial school.

The listing offices are supposed to have counted noses. It is hoped they have done the kind of job the public was led to believe they would do—the best ever.

The auto parties that are caught on a railroad track in front of an approaching train are criminally negligent and usually pay the penalty in the resulting collision.

Ditching the Crown

"I attended a theatre in London," says an American player, "on the occasion of the production of a play wherein the chief figure, the king, aged and infirm, was blessed with two sons. He was passing up and down the stage with a weary look, exclaiming aloud, 'On which of these my sons shall I bestow my crown? Came a voice from the gallery, 'Why not a crown apiece, guver?' "

No Hooks Required

At the club vacation yarns were going around. There was a semi-circle drawn up in front of the fire. "I fished with three hooks at a time," stated the man on one end. "Frequently I caught two fish at a time, sometimes three, and I don't want any alleged humor about it, either. It's the truth, and the man who told the story didn't dare say it." "In fact," he went on to say, "I have seen it done. Now my case was quite different." "Well, what was your case?" "The fish knew I had bait and they just jumped into the boat."

Catlet Jokes

U. S. Representative Albert Johnson from Washington, Third district, tells this story: "I was having a hot fight in congress over certain western land laws. The western congressmen had formed what now we'd call a 'block' and were making a tremendous to-do in their efforts to get these laws modified more to their liking. Joe Cannon is the cause of the debate, I assure you. I've heard a lot of sand and fury in my time, but the most impressive sound in my experience is the sound of a little bunch of western congressmen making a noise like a majority."

The Gardener's Smile

"Well, Thomas, how do I look?" asked the colonel of his favorite servant, the gardener, as he shaved off his new uniform. "Splendid, sir, splendid," said the old man. "Why, you look as bold as a lion." "What's your name, boy?" "O, you never saw one," said the colonel. "O, yes, sir," answered the servant. "I've often seen a lion." "Where?" was the next question. "Why, sir, up at the hall. Sir John has a lion and you've often seen him, sir." "Nonsense, William, that's a jactation and they can't be lions." "Well, sir," said William, ruefully, "anyhow, you look just like that."

The Quick Answer

Throes of birth from poverty to riches. Mr. Smith bought a motor car. It wasn't much of a car but he talked about it a lot. He always called it "my automobile." He tried many experiments with it, and was often seen running around with a hand pump, trying to get it to run. Finally, it was known that Smith and his automobile became the joke of the neighborhood. One day Smith was mowing his lawn when something went wrong with the mower. He sat down beside it to have a look at the machinery. A wag, chanceing to pass that way, paused.

"Good morning, Smith," he said. "Is your automobile again?" "Not a bit," growled Smith. "It's myoughtermost-grass—but it won't."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Blow to Poor Coal

N. Y. Herald: By enactment of a drastic law, Massachusetts has succeeded in reducing to a negligible minimum the importation and sale of fraudulent coal within her borders. In less than twenty-four hours after the bill had been signed by Governor Cox 400 tons of unburned coal was seized in one yard in Somerville. Two days later 2000 tons was barried sale pending analysis. At towns all over the state so-called coal in certain lots was seized and freight agents warned that other cars loaded with suspected coal were to be held for investigation.

Summarized, the results of this much-needed legislation are that within the few weeks that have elapsed since its enactment the Bay State is in a bin of unburnable trash and is ready with clean coal for examination by the state sealer of weights and measures.

Massachusetts has demonstrated that marketing calm blank refuse as coal may be made a barred industry within her jurisdiction. What Massachusetts has done in this respect other states may do.

The Price of Clothing

Raleigh Observer: Why is clothing high? William M. Wood gives as one of the reasons "the passing of the tariff act last September, fixing a duty of 21 cents a pound on wool." You pay it every time you buy your clothing. Don't blame the soaring price on the collector. Blame it on the republican collector.

The Case of Chelsea

Lawrence Tribune: Chelsea is confronted with the unpleasant necessity of cleaning up a congested area which has been devoted largely to the junk business. Members of the great Chelsea fire were relieved Sunday when fires of an apparently incendiary origin broke out in this section and only the lack of a high wind prevented a repetition of the previous experience.

Chelsea authorities have recognized for a long time the dangers that existed in this district where junk shops and the rag picking industry have flourished. These are perfectly legitimate and necessary lines of business but decidedly dangerous from a fire standpoint when carried on in old wooden buildings. It is now proposed to make more strict building regulations in an attempt to reduce the fire hazard.

City officials naturally hesitate to adopt measures which they know must be unpopular with many of their staunch supporters. In cases like this the welfare of the majority demands such a course and the officials should fulfill their obligations to the city as a whole regardless of the outcome.

Special Sunday evenings for invasions at which the men were allowed to smoke, were a recent experiment in a movie house at Sutton, England.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The suburbanite's thoughts of spring planting received a rude shock when he awoke yesterday morning to find the mercury in the thermometer down near the 30 mark. Though he shivered, his decision to plant was not shaken in the least. Every year he goes through the same ordeal of spading, fertilizing, planting, weeding and then reaping rewards that hardly pays for the expenditure of time and money, but he never loses faith. Sooner or later a banner crop will be harvested and he will be amply repaid for his labor. It is well that he looks at it in this way for he, physically, is reaping the reward of his labor. Work in the out-door is the greatest tonic, and Nature is often the best doctor. Who who scoffs at the suburbanite's endeavor to grow vegetables for his home table might profit by following his example.

INTERESTING TALK ON APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY

"Psychology is no longer the dream of the theorist, but is available for the use of the practical man," declared Frank D. Stanton, speaking on "Applied Psychology," last night, in Colonial Hall. In the first of a series of five lectures on this subject, which will be given this week, a crowd of several hundred interested people attended the lecture, which was open to the public.

The object and purpose of the course, which the speaker explained, was for the audience to learn the source of will power and a lengthy discussion of the mind made up the talk given last night. There are three parts in the mind, the conscious, reasoning and studying. To recall what we have seen in previous years, we must call on the subconscious.

Psychology is applicable to every line of endeavor for health, happiness and success. It is studied by the business man, who applies it to the management of his factory and office, to produce better results and conditions. Men in every line of endeavor are applying it to their occupations, and, in consequence, to a larger income and to enlarge their field of endeavor.

Human intelligence acts and reacts to the laws of psychology, asserted Mr. Stanton. Organized common sense with an understanding of these laws, the principles and the technique of their application, will make anything which is reasonably possible to you.

"Silent policemen" should be stationed in all busy parts of the city and also where the highways of the surrounding towns connect with Lowell's thoroughfares. The use of glaring headlights should be forbidden.

"Safety first" should be the watchword for everybody. When boarding street cars care must be used as it is a very easy matter to miss one's footing and an accident may result.

Children should never interfere with fallen wires. In crossing roads children must bear in mind the fact that there are street crossings provided for pedestrians and all roads should be crossed in a direct or straight line.

It is a peculiar fact that although so much instruction is given, many people make "jay crossings" so-called, because they cross a road illegally.

"Another important fact to bear in mind is the responsibility that rests on every individual who drives an automobile. He should be well informed on all traffic regulations. He should never forget to put out his hand before stepping the machine and also show the direction in which he intends to travel. He should have his brakes inspected frequently.

"Another danger is the recklessness of children riding bicycles. They cross roads without giving any consideration to vehicles on the road. Bicycles should be kept close to the right and should be equipped with bells for use during the day and with lamps at night.

"In schools, factories and shopstalls should be frequently given to impress strongly on everybody the importance of public safety. Safety squads should be organized in all sections of the city, for the means of keeping school children out of the roads.

"Above all, everybody should use good judgment and take all the necessary precautions to avoid accidents.

Children should be especially careful of the danger that exists and should say "stop! Look! Listen!"

AUDIENCE CHARMED BY BLIND VIOLINIST

Local patrons of music who were fortunate enough to be present in the Memorial Auditorium last night were given another opportunity to hear a celebrated artist in Abraham Haltowitsch, blind Russian violinist, who contributed a concert of beautiful music for the violin before an audience which, noticeably appreciative, was not commensurate with the skill and capabilities of such an accomplished artist. Haltowitsch last night was to many a revelation, his intimacy with his instrument in the conditions of soothing sonatas and symphonies, in difficult allegros and other classical numbers leaving the audience to ponder over and admire the precious gift of touch so manifest in every Haltowitsch selection.

The artist was ably assisted at the piano by Henry Levine, whose fanciful accompaniments added splendor to a program that was in itself replete with the best known strains of eminent composers. The concert opened with Tartin's sonata for piano and violin in G minor, the slow, plaintive notes of the violin of the first number bursting out in tumultuous splendor in the second part, the largo. These were followed by "Symphonie Espagnole" in three sections, each succeeding one more beautiful than the former and at the conclusion of the andante, a huge bouquet of fragrant sweet peas was presented to the blind player, who had no eyes to see, but only ears to hear that his efforts were meeting with success and approval.

It would seem by the applause that "The Indian Snake Dance" in Haltowitsch's third group, a typical American Indian dance, played on each of the four strings of the instrument, was a favorite selection. The artist was called upon to repeat, but his evident anxiety to get to the next number, "A Hebrew Melody" justified itself when the clear, sweet strains of the latter reverberated through the hall and placed the appreciative gathering in a receptive mood for the concluding selections, "Ave Maria" and "Caprice No. 24" both of which served as fitting reminiscences of what had gone before. The artist obliged with one extra and left the stage, albeit still sightless, but not blind to the plaudits of his admiring listeners, for whom he had provided an evening of excellent and refreshing entertainment.

The complete program follows:

Sonata for Piano and Violin in G Major G. Tartin

ANDOVER ASSOCIATION AT ELIOT CHURCH

Charles H. Randall, serving as moderator, opened the annual meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers, which was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Eliot Union Congregational church. The transaction of routine business, the election of officers, and address of unusual interest, marked the meeting, one of the best attended in recent years.

Rev. Richard Peters, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, opened the afternoon session with devotional services. Following the services the minutes of the last two meetings were read, and accepted by the gathering. The following man read the reports of the committees which they lead: Advisory, Rev. B. A. Jenkins; ministerial standing, Rev. John L. Keedy; work of the churches, Rev. John L. Lowell; social survey, Rev. A. C. McElviff, Jr.; work for the young people, Rev. A. S. Wheelock.

The recommendation of the advisory committee that an amendment to the constitution be made admitting the independent Congregational church to the association, met with favor, and it received a unanimous vote in the affirmative. All Souls church was also admitted to the association, on the favorable report of the advisory committee.

Rev. Percy A. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, was received as a member from the Hampden association. Rev. Harry J. Newton and Rev. Thomas J. Langdale, were made members from the Essex association.

Rev. A. H. Fuller of Ballardvale, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in a report that was accepted by the delegates. All of last year's officers were re-elected. In addition Rev. F. H. Epler of Northwood was voted a member of the committee on arrangements for a term of four years, to succeed Rev. E. C. Bartlett of Cheshire. Rev. E. V. Blagow of Andover was elected as delegate to the national convention. Rev. Newman Matthews was selected as delegate alternate.

Rev. A. H. Fuller was re-elected

THIS POOR MAN IS FORCED TO N.Y. COUPLES DANCE OUT COURT HIS OWN WIFE

MRS. HELEN DUDLEY

BY ROY GIBBONS
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, April 25.—Facing John H. Dudley here is the most unusual problem of courtship that ever confronted a lovesick swain.

For it's up to Dudley to win and to win his own legally wedded wife.

That sentence has been imposed on him by a Chicago court.

If Dudley's wooing wins—then wife, home and happiness will be his.

And if he fails—Mrs. Dudley will be allowed unrestrained to live at the home of her parents while Dudley in loneliness tries his own breakfast bacon and longs for the life that might be.

How It Started

A few days ago Dudley and Helen Peterson, 18, felt the lure of spring, went to Crown Point, Indiana's Green Green, and were married.

But within a week married life irked the youthful bride, and Dudley found himself alone in his little flat.

Straightway haled Dudley into court. Helen's parents, he declared, were holding the bride incommoded against her will. And the husband demanded a writ of habeas corpus.

Came into court the bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson, accompanied by the sheriff.

"I don't love John as a wife should," the bride testified. "I hadn't intended to marry him at all. But it was a nice day and I was passing his house on my way to work, so I thought I'd just drop in and say hello."

"And he said: 'Let's get married! It was such a nice day. I didn't feel much like going to work. So we went to Crown Point. I left him of my own free will a week later."

Then Helen's mother broke in.

"The marriage was not the act of God," she interpolated. "Helen will get along with her husband as quietly as possible, and go away as a missionary."

"Case dismissed," announced Judge Sabath. "I don't believe this girl is being held against her will. So I'm not going to issue any writ." And then—

"John, it is spring and love is in the air. Start courteling your wife all over. You may send her flowers and candy and take her to the theatre."

"Then come back here, both of you. Let me know then how you feel about the situation."

And now Dudley's playing Romeo.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Master Gabriel, in "Capt. Kiddie," at the B. F. Keith's theatre, this week, is the best example of the art of light musical comedy.

"The hot" is a composite novelty. This is one of the neopopular attractions of the show, which holds such remarkable funmakers as Fenton Fields.

These men are on the top as creators of laughter. Henry C. Gross singers are more than ordinary, and entertaining with their work, and their talent is one of the best striking in the show. "By Appointment" is the title of the class act of Roland & Ray. A real singing comedienne is Peggy Brooks, who scores with emphasis, while the M. E. G. Lime Trio in "The Hollywood" are among the best of the European aerobatics. The bill opens with the Parrots in a novelty.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Pola Negri in "Italia Donna," her first American-made picture, is attracting capacity houses to the Merrimack Square theatre this week. In this stirring passion drama, with its wonderful settings and elaborate costumes, Miss Negri scores the greatest success of her career. The other feature of the current program is Buster Keaton in "The Blacksmith."

THE STRAND

Edmund Hammerstein in "Under Oath," a highly dramatic story, with the star in one of her most interesting roles, and Eugene O'Brien in "John Smith" are the stellar attractions to be shown for the first time today at The Strand. If you are partial to the better class of picture plays then do

Counsel for Fish Dealers Seek New Writ

BOSTON, April 25.—Counsel for F. Monroe Dyer and others who are serving sentences in the house of correction as a result of conviction of conspiracy to monopolize the sale of fish during war-time, notified the clerk of the superior court today that they had abandoned their intention of seeking a writ of error in the United States supreme court, and would apply instead for a writ of certiorari. It was explained that if a state court upheld statute of which the constitutionality had been attacked, the case might be reviewed by the supreme court by means of a writ of error, but that if the state decision was against the validity of the statute the mode of review was by certiorari.

DRONEY WILL BE SENTENCED FRIDAY

James J. Droney of this city was found guilty in the East Cambridge superior court yesterday of maintaining a liquor nuisance, keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor for sale, and assaulting Officer Farley, who was on duty at the time of the offense. After a short trial, the court adjourned to a date in May, and the case went to the jury. Droney said: "It is a very good thing, it is not for me, but you keep it. I'll do you a lot of good."

"Well, we know it and it is doing us some good, and it would do us more if the U. S. States joined, and I am certain that eventually she will join. The peace is certainly ready to remove all features unsatisfactory to the United States, such as Article X."

Girl Witness in House of David Case Describes Marriage Lottery

First Man Chosen by Her
Later Won by Another—
Forced to Choose Again

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 25.—Halting the courtward procession of children and grooms of the House of David, the grand jury investigating charges of immorality in "King" Benjamin Purnell's Isrealite colony, one of them girls, who were married off in past group weddings there.

This afternoon some more of the 14 couples who rushed into wedlock last week on the eve of the state's investigation, will be summoned to appear.

Mrs. Helen Couch, 21 years old, expected today was today's first witness. She repeated the same story she told on the stand in Federal court at Grand Rapids, last month when she was a witness for Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen in their suit to recover $50,000 from Purnell.

Mrs. Couch described to the grand jury, Judge Harry Dingeman, Detroit, how she had chosen Joseph Bulley, one of Purnell's followers, as her husband in the marriage lottery, but when the drawing was made, another girl took the prize so she was forced to choose again, and selected David Couch, her present husband.

Officials for the track and field events were: Starter, Major Polly Kitteredge; Judges, Messrs. Moynihan, Markham, Gleason and McArthur; Measurers, Messrs. Dugay, Shaffer, Moran and Walsh; referee was backed by Walter C. Wedder, chemist of the state police.

Pupils of the girls' vocational school were given the afternoon off and filled the bleachers with a jazzy cheering section.

WILL NOT INVESTIGATE JOHN STREET FIRE

Because of the fact that he feels it might have been possible for someone to carelessly drop a lighted cigarette in the building on John street, which caught fire yesterday afternoon, Chief Edward F. Saunders said today he did not believe he will conduct an investigation of the blaze.

It was said in connection with the building that the Union National bank, which owns it and adjacent property, will tear down the wooden end, where the fire occurred, but inquiry at the bank today showed no immediate plans.

Eventually the bank intends to tear down the entire building and extend its banking rooms through to John street, but until such a time as this, expansion seems expedient, no action will be taken, it is believed.

STOCK MARKET HARDING BACK IN WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, April 25.—Publication of the controversial quarterly earnings report of the United States Steel corporation imported great interest at the opening of today's stock market. U. S. Steel opened a point higher at 105 1/2, while Sloss-Shafted and Bethlehem Steel made a similar gain and the oils were substantially higher.

Although few stocks lost ground, especially Pleschmann and Standard Oil of California, the remainder of the list pursued a steady upward course. Buying was most effective in the sugars, rubbers, domestic oils, leathers, equipments and steel. Railroads also responded to an upward trend, especially Louisville & Nashville, and Chicago & North Western. Gains ranged from 1/2 to 2 1/2 points, were scored by Goodyear, Ruth, Peerless, Republic Steel, Wells Fargo Express, Central Leather preferred, Louisville & Nashville, Maryland oil, Whiting, Cleveland, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, and others gained two points, but recovered. Foreign exchanges opened steady with French francs rising 1/2 points to 85.80.

The close was strong. The late upturn which was pronounced in some of the food and equipment stocks gave evidence of a change in sentiment by some speculative interests. Short covering operations were conducted on a large scale during the final hour.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 5

Jack, of course, was very much excited over the possibility of visiting the land of Miney Moe. "Oh!" he shouted, "please tell me how I can go there. Which road do I take?" "No road at all," replied Eny Meeny. "Just wait until my magic rope starts to rise." And the rope began to wiggle upward.

Nobody can blame Jack for being a bit startled as he watched the long, brownish cord stand straight up in the air, and slowly move up and up. "Why, I never saw a rope do that before," he exclaimed. "Where is it going?" "Right straight to the land of Miney Moe," replied Eny Meeny.

And then the old, friendly man sang a little verse: "If to the land of Miney Moe is where you'd really like to go, just grab the rope and hang on tight. These woods will soon be out of sight." Jack paused a minute and then took hold of the rope. In an instant he was sailing up. (Continued.)

to show her best side to the world. In her hand she held a needle. No doubt she was at that very minute mending the Gingerbread Man's clothes.

They read the verse on it and it said: "I love you."

So they got into their saucer boat with the silver spoons for oars and rowed back to the shore of the custard lake with the patty shells on the shore and started up Sugar-Loaf Hill.

"We must be nearly there!" said Nancy. "The Cut-Out Lady's house can't be far away now. We've been travelling for ever and ever so long."

And then at that very minute they saw it. It was made of cardboard and all the flowers and trees were cut-outs. Over the door was a sign which said "Mending" in neat letters. The sign was in neat letters, not the mending.

On the doormat was the coccinell cat, asleep. No doubt his mistress had stuck new coccinell all over him after the night, for he looked as good as new. Not a bit of his sponge-cake body showed anywhere.

Suddenly he opened his eyes and sat up. "Mehew-ew," he said. "Who are you and what do you want?"

"Is the Cut-Out Lady in?" asked

"Yes, here I am," said the Cut-Out Lady and she appeared in the doorway sideways, of course—for having only one side and no thickness, she wished

DOG SAVES
GIRL'S LIFE

Grasped Canine When She
Began to Sink in Quag-
mire and Held Fast All Night

Girl and Dog Found Early
This Morning Near Ex-
haustion at Brookfield

BROOKFIELD, April 25. The life of little Florence Coteur was credited today to her shepherd dog. Seeking Mayflowers in the woods south of here yesterday, the child was caught in a quagmire. She began to sink and grasped the dog. The grasp became an embrace as Florence went deeper into the swamp until, with the dog, "King" standing firm to his task, she could sink no more. Through the night, child and dog were held fast, the animal faithful to his charge.

Today a brother of the girl, searching after others had gone to rest from a night long hunt, found little Florence holding "King." The child was in the swamp to her armpits. The dog's legs were deep in the mire. Florence was exhausted and speechless for several hours, but recovered and called for her dog. The animal also responded to treatment.

Mayflowers found by the child and dropped as she pressed on for more had led her brother to the place where she was found.

Florence is 14 years old. She set out to look for the flowers on the shores of Lake Quabog soon after returning from school yesterday, and when she failed to appear at supper, the family became concerned, yet the fact that "King" had not come back gave them some assurance that she would be found.

State constabulary and the local police were called out to search and neighbors and others joined in the hunt. They groped through the woods most of the night, calling to the child. But neither sight nor sound of her developed and the search was suspended by most.

But the child's brother was in the woods again at daybreak, seeking traces, and found the flowers. He pressed on, calling as he went. But neither the cry of the child, nor the bark of the dog responded and it was not until he saw them that he knew the search was at an end. They were too exhausted by their ordeal to make the reply that probably would have brought searchers to their side several times during the night.

When Sup't. Thomas R. Atkinson appeared before the council during budget sessions, he said a considerable amount of "doubtful" on routes is now necessary and admitted the department could use more regular men.

Insomuch as the salary of a regular patrolman is $1525 per year, $10,000 would allow the appointment of six new men.

The mayor did not signify what his attitude toward the order will be, but did say he would take several days in consideration of it.

TALKED ON THE
STUDY OF HISTORY

Miss Blanche A. Cheney, an instructor at the State Normal school, gave a very interesting lecture to the students of the school today on the subject, "The Study of History as a Preparation for Citizenship." Today's lecture was the fifth of a series of six on the general theme, "Adapting the Curriculum to Changing Social Needs." The next and last lecture will be given May 30th by Miss Grace G. Pierce, supervisor of music in Arlington. Her subject will be "The Place of Music in Present-day Education."

Miss Cheney dealt with a subject well known to her as she has taught history for many years, and she treated it skillfully. At the close of the lecture she was given the thanks of the school by a pupil specially delegated for this work.

WILL REPAIR ROADBED
A large repair crew will start to work on the roadbed and rails of the street car company's trackage, between St. Mary's church, Collinsville, and the bridge, on Monday. This method has been severely condemned by the conditions caused by the hard winter and it is expected that the crew will be on the job for three weeks at least before the rail is in condition for the heavy summer traffic to the lake.

slayer John J. Donovan said today he will take up at least a portion of the 10 days allotted to him in consideration of the order passed last night by the city council, authorizing the transfer of $10,000 from the general treasury fund to the police department appropriation, for the express purpose of providing additional regular patrolmen. Before the expiration of this 10-day period he either will approve or veto it.

The order was introduced by Councilor Frederick A. Sadlier upon the

WILL ERECT PAROCHIAL SCHOOL BUILDING

Plans are under way for the erection of a modern parochial school building in Notre Dame de Lourdes parish and it is expected work on the new structure will be started soon and will be of brick construction, will be built on the large tract of land purchased a few days ago by the parish and located at the junction of Middlesex and Wilder streets.

Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.I., pastor of the parish, stated this morning that he is not in a position to state just now how many rooms the building will contain nor the cost of the structure for plans are not yet complete, but the school will be sufficiently large to take care of the growing population of that district.

The present school building, which is located on land adjoining the church, contains but eight rooms and is inadequate for the large number of children of the parish who wish

30 Miles North Blown to Bills by Fierce Wind

HENRIETTA, Tex., April 25.—Virtually every building in Henrietta was damaged and five residences and six oil derricks at Burkhardt, 30 miles north were blown to bits by a terrific wind storm which swept up from the southeast last night.

A 60-mile wind drove big boulders through the windows in Henrietta and blew in the roofs of the three story St. Elmo hotel, several business buildings and a dozen residences.

Hail piled up a foot deep in Henrietta streets, and a torrential rain that followed the wind storm caused water to fill basements.

Wire communication from Henrietta was demoralized and damage in the rural vicinity could not be checked. Henrietta was in darkness last night, but searching parties who used lanterns and candles accounted for no casualty.

Mr. McGannon, who accompanied his husband, returned to this country at the same time, but went from New

A fund raising campaign for the parish improvement is being started by Rev. Leinen Brassard, O.M.I., who announced this morning that he has organized a drawing contest, the prize to be a $250 radio set. A series of social events and entertainments will also be arranged and it is expected that all members of the parish will lend a helping hand to make the campaign a most successful one.

At the school. The old school will be used the remainder of this year and will be used for a new lecture room which will soon be installed in the church to provide heat for the two buildings.

According to present plans, as soon as the new school is completed the large building, which now stands on the tract of land purchased by the parish, will be remodeled and converted into a modern home for the Grey Nuns of the Cross of Ottawa, who are in charge of the school. Eventually the corner of Middlesex and Wilder streets will be a parish centre, for it is planned in a few years to erect a new church as well as a rectory on the new site.
